

Being a column in which the publisher just "blows off the steam."

By Willard Jones

A LETTER from Mrs. Ruby (Austin) Poe to The Herald has information that will be of interest to many of their friends in Hamlin, where they lived for many years:

"Austin and I are settled in our new home and are very happy with our location—1214 Lois Street in Kerrville. We miss all our good friends in Hamlin, but we are looking forward to many nice visits from them."

"Monday of this week Bill Feagan, his wife and children came by for a visit. Yesterday Fred B. Moore, his wife and children came by. Johnny Bryant, his wife and Cindy were here recently. Also the Ted Russells."

TWO MEN were sitting in the lobby of a blood donor station. One was an Eastern tourist, the other an Apache Indian. After staring a few minutes, the tourist could contain his curiosity no longer.

"Are you really a full blooded Indian?" he asked.

"Well, no," the Apache replied thoughtfully, "I'm one pint short."

GLOOMY DAYS cannot continue always. Shadows are sent that we may more fully appreciate the sunshine. When troubles come, be thankful for the pleasant experience of the past, and for the pleasant expectations of the future. "The eternal stars shine out as soon as it is dark enough."

If there isn't a star within your sky,
Pretend it's there!
Why, a make-believe one, swung wide and high,
Is just as fair!

If you put it where you'll see it every night,
Just where the sky's particularly bright,
Your star is sure to guide your steps aright.

If there isn't any sunshine in your day,
Why, put some in!
If you've never made your sun that way,
Oh, do begin!

This sunshine-making's hard, but you won't mind;
Keep on, and when it's done you're apt to find
The home-made brand's the very nicest kind!

LA DOYCE LAMBERT, has this to say in his "I've Been Thinking" column in The Andrews County News:

Some psychology tests have tended to deflate the human ego by providing that they are not the only ones who have the capacity to learn. They have placed a chimpanzee in a cage and put a banana just outside. He was given a stick a few inches too short to reach the banana but long enough to reach another stick which was long enough to reach the fruit. After a period of study, the animal got the longer stick so that he could reach the banana.

Even the paramcium, a one-celled animal found in stagnant water, has been found capable of a rudimentary type of learning. A psychologist once put a paramcium in a drop of water, half of which was dark and half of which was in the light. The drop was heated so that the dark half was at normal temperature and the light was too hot. The paramcium "learned to avoid the light and did so afterward regardless of temperature."

I guess the moral of this story is: Never let an elephant sit on you.

DUTY IS DUTY no matter who is involved. A story we ran across the other day illustrates the point.

"Open the gate, my boy," said the rider who headed the hunting party.

"I'm sorry, sir," answered the boy, "but my father sent me to say that you must not hunt on his grounds."

"Do you know who I am?" demanded the man gruffly.

"No, sir," answered the boy.

"I am the Duke of Wellington." The boy took off his cap to the great man. But he did not open the gate. "The Duke of Wellington will not ask me to disobey my father's orders," he said quietly.

Slowly the man took off his hat and smiled. "I honor the boy who is faithful to his duty," said the great man, and with that he and his party rode away.

MRS. TEXAS WINNER—Mrs. Louis F. Hale (right) of Kilgore was crowned "Mrs. Texas" in Dallas by the retiring "Mrs. Texas," Mrs. Edwin C. Campbell of LaGrange. Secretary of State Zolzie Steakley, who represented Governor Daniel (center), smiles his approval. Mrs. Hale, the mother of four young children, including twins, is the wife of a rancher who owns and operates a truck line. Mrs. Hale will compete in "Mrs. America" national finals to be held in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, May 11 and 12.

Business People Are Urged to Respect Parking Regulations

Cars Allowed to Stand All Day in Reserved Places

Many business house operators and their employees are utilizing the parking space on Central Avenue and other streets for all-day parking of their automobiles, thus depriving customers and other visitors of the right to park, it was pointed out at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Hamlin Planning Board.

Members of the planning board, composed of 10 business men selected as representatives of the city's business interests, declare that it was their recommendation to the Hamlin City Council that parking meters continue to be kept from the streets in the belief that store operators and employees would leave for customers the parking spaces where meters formerly was placed. Disregard by many Hamlin business people of this policy may force the meters back into use, board members declare.

Store owners and employees are urged by the planning board to find parking space off the main streets as a means to encouraging more visitors to town to stop and shop Hamlin.

CUTTING THE BUDGET IN ACTION—NOT TALK

A wave of budget cutting talk has swept Capitol Hill in Washington, apparently as a result of a groundswell of sentiment among the public concerning economy.

Not unconnected with this development are recent speeches by former President Herbert Hoover, former Vice President John N. Garner and many others, all of whom urged Congress to economize in the present period of inflation.

Senator Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, has said the budget must be cut and has proposed a budget of his own which would save billions of dollars. Minority House Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., Massachusetts Republican, says the Eisenhower budget is "unbearable" to the American people and he agrees that cuts must be made.

Other leaders in Congress agree that reductions are in prospect, and these leaders include both the leaders of the Senate. Therefore, it seems that the question of cuts is now settled and the only remaining factor of doubt is the amount the budget will be cut.

Folks in this far-away Hamlin territory are concerned with budget cutting efforts, and while most of the folks down here have no specific formula for cutting the national budget but they do believe that their government should set the example as a business-like operation by paying its own way, not spending more than it takes in, and refuse to be a continuing part of false economy. They believe that the government could do without thousands and thousands of folks who are on the government payroll at fat salaries who do very little work of a constructive nature; they believe generally that the government is wasting millions and millions of dollars in foreign aid, military spending and wastefulness; they believe that a check of the huge list of people getting government checks for one reason or another would reveal thousands of panhandlers and unworthy recipients.

President Eisenhower's budget calls for an outlay of $71,800,000,000. In many circles a $65,000,000,000 limit is considered preferable, although we do not believe Congress will have the sheer fortitude to whack more than $6,000,000,000 off the Eisenhower budget. We do think Congress would be well to trim the budget to less than $70,000,000,000 and apply what is saved to tax cuts.

There are those who believe that the saving should be applied to the reduction of the national debt, but we believe it is in the interest of the country to apply these savings to tax cuts and that these tax cuts will improve the picture for business expansion and the creation of new jobs.

We do not agree that a reasonable tax cut would bring on inflation, which we realize is a generally accepted theory, for we are of the opinion that the threat of inflation has been checked to a greater degree than is recognized at the present time.

Producers for a Free Market

The Headlight of Horton, Kansas, reports that "production of beef cattle in the United States has increased and improved every year since cattle numbers took an upward turn in 1949."

Production of other kinds of livestock has also been running at very high levels. New records have been set both in overall meat output and in per capita consumption.

Livestock is not the only agricultural crop which has shown major production gains. But it differs in one very fundamental respect from some of the others. It is not subjected to government controls, and it is not subsidized. So all the mountains of meat produced go into the channels of consumption. They do not go into government storage, at an enormous cost to the taxpayers.

Meat, in other words, moves in a free market, which is subject to the natural law of supply and demand and nothing else. Prices and production quotas are not arbitrarily fixed by fallible human beings. Livestock prices, naturally, have not always satisfied the producers, any more than meat prices have always satisfied consumers. But over the years this free market automatically sees to it that a fair price balance is maintained, and that producers and consumers get the best deal possible.

Most important of all in the long run, producers for the free market keep their independence and their power of decision. They are not forever subject to the unpredictable winds of politics.

Not Indispensable

Walter Damrosch, renowned orchestra leader, delights in telling this tale:

"Early in my career I made what I fancied was remarkable progress as a conductor, and came to consider 'myself' the irreplaceable leader of my fine little orchestra. But one night I was disillusioned.

"I was preparing to conduct a particularly ambitious program, when I discovered that I had forgotten my baton. I told my assistant to get it for me, when three violinists held up restraining hands. 'Don't mind,' each said, 'here's a baton,' and each produced one from an inner pocket. Never since that moment have I considered myself indispensable."

Fallacy of the Road

Statistics are often dull but there is one traffic statistic that intrigues us. Stated simply it is: In 82 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents one or more driver violations are reported.

In almost any issue of the paper you are likely to find an "accident" story. It might read something like this: "Two men were killed and another seriously injured in a two-car collision just south of the intersection of such-and-such highway last night..."

You read through looking for familiar names and then go to another story without further thought. These "accident" stories have become a standard part of the newspaper not unlike the financial pages, comic strips and sports results.

If you do give it a second thought, or if a friend is involved in a mishap, you feel helpless and humble as you wonder what unusual quirks of fate created the conditions which led to the "accident."

Perhaps you are wondering why the word "accidents" has been in quotation marks here. It's because the word is a misnomer for the terrifying smashes and collisions that occur every day on the highways.

Remember the statistic—in more than four out of five fatal traffic accidents a driver violation was reported. How many of these crashes would have occurred had there been no violations committed? No one can know. But one can certainly say that the number would have been far less than it is.

A fatalistic attitude toward traffic accidents only serves to complicate the traffic problem. The Texas Safety Association and National Safety Council have been hammering at this fallacy for years. "Accidents do not happen," they say, "they are caused!"

Unless the moral and intellectual climate of the road is strengthened we will go on wantonly killing innocents and kidding ourselves that we are without blame.

"What you ask is going to cost somebody a lot of money. Are you willing to pay the bills?" This answer was given by a government official to a group of citizens who had appeared to ask for a certain tax-financed project. His frank reply set them back on their heels and, after some discussion among themselves, they withdrew their request.—The Dillon, South Carolina, Herald.

Prices Steady on Fort Worth Market For Most Livestock After Slow Start

After a slow start prices on cattle and calves were mostly steady at Fort Worth Monday, declares Ted Gouldy, special market reporter for The Herald, in his weekly market release. He continues: Fed cattle were again in small supply. Stockers and feeders found demand broad at fully steady to stronger prices, quality considered, and the high grade offerings were very scarce. Comparative prices: Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $18.50 to $22. the higher figure on two loads of heavy steers. High choice to price medium weight steers or yearlings were quotable above that range. Common and medium offerings sold from $13 to $18. Fat cows cashed at $12 to $14, while canners and cutters bulked at $9 to $12. Bulls sold from $10 to $15.

Good and choice slaughter calves sold from $20 to $23, and medium and lower grades from $12 to $18. Stocker steer calves drew $16 to $22, and were quotable above that range. Steer yearlings cashed at $21 down. Stock cows sold from $10 to $14.

In the special sale of stocker cows and pairs at Fort Worth last week the total of over 1,900 head included 1,258 which went back to country as replacement and some 350 aged cows and fat heifers went into packer channels.

Most of the pairs ranged from $140 to $165, with a few as high as $190 to $200. Some sold by the pound and others by the head. Typical of the strong rates for the better kinds was the shipment of 17 pairs consigned by Ray Boothe of Sweetwater which sold with the cows at $17 and the calves at $29.

Buyers from all over the South and Southwest were represented and most of the cattle went back to Texas pastures. Many of the visitors expressed surprise at the number of very thin cows which appeared in the offering despite the improved conditions in many sections of the Southwest this spring.

Next of these special sales will also be for all breeds, all ages, and will be held on May 10. It is expected this event will attract a good many yearlings, as was the case a year earlier. The May 10 event will include a show, as well as a sale, with both the Texas Hereford Association and the Texas Aberdeen-Angus Association judging entries of the breeds prior to the sale.

The offering of 7,800 sheep and lambs at Fort Worth Monday was cleared early at fully steady to strong prices. The offering was more than 75 per cent spring lambs. Old sheep were very scarce, and relatively few old crop shorn lambs arrived.

Comparative prices: Good and choice spring lambs cashed at $22 to $23.50, and cull to medium springers sold from $15 to $20. Some lightweight spring lambs sold as feeders in the $18 to $19 bracket. Good and choice shorn old crop lambs cashed at $19 to $21.50, those at the higher figure having No. 1 or No. 2 pelts. Shorter pelts sold from $20 down. Cull to medium old crop lambs cashed at $12 to $18. Slaughter ewes drew $5.50 to $6.50.

Choice butcher hogs scored $18 and $18.25 at Fort Worth Monday, this being an advance of 25 to 50 cents above last week's close. The less desirable weights and grades sold from $16 to $17.75, and pigs drew $10 to $14. Sows cashed at $14.50 to $16.

County Agent Bill Collier of Clay County was on the Fort Worth market Monday with a group of 4-H Club boys and girls

Sara Kay Fomby to Compete in Forensic Contests at Austin

Sara Kay Fomby, Hamlin High School senior, advanced to the state forensic meet in Austin last week-end after being declared the winner of girls' extemporaneous speaking in the district meet at Brownwood. Sara Kay competed against the boys' division since she had no competition in the girls' division.

The critic judge was impressed by Sara's speech, reports Doyle Smith, speech instructor at HHS. The contest is considered the most challenging of all speaking events. The speaker must choose one topic out of five, all of which are new to the speaker, and give an eight-minute speech after only 30 minutes' preparation. Miss Fomby's winning topic was "Can the U. S. Budget Be Cut in 1957?"

who sold their lambs at $20.50 and made a profit, he reported. Collier reported the lamb project had been an interesting one for the group, and the trip to market was a fitting climax to their project.

In the group were Carol Lee, Linda Lee, Bobby Lee, H. B. Stallcup, Terry Butler, Morris Sears and Cindy Cox. Adults with the group included Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lee, Harold Lee and Hopper Butler.

HHS Students Win Places at Regional Contests Saturday

Hamlin High School will have several entries in the state Inter-scholastic League contests when the literary events will be run off next week at Austin, by virtue of the school's showing at the Region II Class A and B contests held last Saturday at Brownwood.

Hamlin representatives won two first places and three seconds at the regional competition (despite the fact that no mention was made of the winners by Hamlin in a state paper coming to the area). Lampasas had the most first places in Class A with four, plus one second and three third places. Winters followed with three firsts and four seconds. Stamford, Comanche, Seymour and Hamilton each won one first place.

Taking first places in the regional literary events were: Sara Kay Fomby, girls' extemporaneous speaking; and Ginger Means in Class A shorthand. Elizabeth Norton of Hamlin also took second in the shorthand contests.

Other winners by Hamlin High School students were: Judy Hardin in ready writing, second; Elva Siburt and Anna Lou Fudge, second in girls' debate; and Bob Haynes and Sonny Winegeart, second in boys' debate.

P-TA at McCaulley Hears Frank Crowder Speak at Gathering

Attendants at the McCaulley Parent-Teacher Association last week heard Frank Crowder of Roby discuss "Continuing Interest in the Needs of Our Schools." The session was held in the homelike cottage.

Mrs. Albert Maberry of Trent entertained the unit with piano selections.

In the business session, with Mrs. Orvel Hill of Golan presiding as president, the P-TA voted to present a scholarship to the most worthy graduating senior who plans to become a future teacher. A report was given on the district conference held recently at Snyder.

At the May 7 meet, prior to the reception for the newly elected officers, Mrs. W. C. Kean of McCaulley will officiate for the installation service. Visitors are always welcome, declare P-TA leaders.

JUST TRYING TO HELP.

The seven-year-old hopeful of a fisherman accompanied his father to a stream and wandered off for a walk. A few minutes later the father heard a strange cry of anguish, and found a man hopping on one foot, caressing the other foot, and groaning with pain.

"What's happened?" asked the father. "I guess it's my fault," said the seven-year-old. "This man told me he hadn't had a bite all morning—so I bit him."

A new age of automobiles begins with this car

Here Today! The FORD SKYLINER — world's only Hide-Away hardtop

Once in a long, long while a car comes along that people remember and talk about for years after its introduction.

The first model "A" Ford was such a car...

The first Ford V-8 was such a car...

The first Ford Thunderbird was such a car.

Today Ford Division is proud to announce still another car that many say is destined to become the most famous Ford of all: The Skyliner—world's only hide-away hardtop.

If you plan to buy a new Ford, or already own one, the fact that Ford created this car is important to you. For all the exhaustive research, planning and testing that went into the Skyliner is evidence of the engineering skill you get in every Ford model.

The Ford SKYLINER, the only all-steel hide-away hardtop, is a car for history.

This is an old dream of Detroit, a dream of two generations of motorists.

And today Ford has made that dream come true—in steel.

But the story behind this dream is a story of men who refused to accept "no" for an answer. In the Ford tradition they kept striving toward the goal long after others had given up the chase.

To understand this Ford spirit you must go back to 1908. That was the year when many Detroiters smiled smugly as Henry Ford announced, "We will build a motor car for the great multitude... so low in price that no man making a good salary will be unable to own one."

And they did.

Today, nearly a half century later, Ford continues to cause the "experts" to change their tune. When you see this all-steel hardtop that retracts into a convertible, you'll be seeing a car that many said would never be mass-produced.

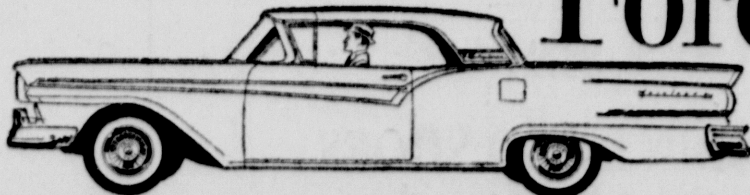

But Ford did it.

It was December 1956—after eight years of research, planning, experimenting and testing—when Ford unveiled this masterpiece... unveiled it amid all the pomp and splendor of the New York Automobile Show.

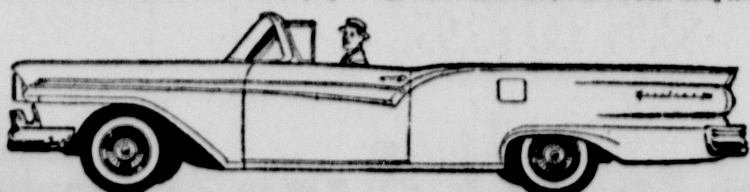

And now this history-making car, this prototype of a whole future generation of cars, is ready for your own personal inspection in the showrooms of many Ford Dealers.

Plan to see it soon. And ask your Dealer to show you the exciting advances in all models of the new Ford line for '57.

It's the newest new kind of Ford

1. It's an all-steel hardtop with sleek Victoria styling... 2. Touch a button and presto! It's a sun-loving convertible!

Hamlin Garden Club Members Tour New Dick Maberry Home at Meeting

New home of the Dick Maberry was the setting of the Hamlin Garden Club regular meeting last Friday afternoon. Guests enjoyed a tour of the home and admiring the flower arrangements throughout the house by members of the club. Featured were iris in line arrangements by Mrs. C. R. Lovell and Mrs. Harold Bonner.

During the business session Mrs. Harold Bonner gave a review of the district Garden Club meeting in Stamford last week. Plans were made and details discussed for the Flower Show at Hamlin, which the local club will sponsor April 27 in the Hamlin High School gymnasium.

Roll call was answered with each member naming her favorite bird and why. Mrs. LaFoy Patterson and Mrs. Arlie Cassle brought an interesting program on appreciation of our birds.

Mrs. Patterson reminded the group of many of our local birds and their foods. "The robin heralds spring, while the blue birds, red birds and goldfinch eat insects that are pests to man. The oriole stops by on his travel from North to South. The hummingbird weighs only about the same as a copper cent, but gives us so much pleasure watching their flight and listening to their song.

Meadow larks, road runners and whip-poor-wills are regular summer boarders here."

Mrs. Cassle declared that "If we meet the needs of the birds they will give us pleasure the year around. Water to drink and to make their nests is very important; foods must be available; and there must be safe nesting places. Birds don't like their neighbors very close. Their houses must fit their size and must be cleaned after each nesting season. Birds need help in getting food in the winter, so to keep them living with us, must be fed regularly from fall to spring. Some birds prefer insects, while others like seeds. Suet, boiled potatoes, chopped eggs and fish are favorites of the insect eating birds, while the birds that prefer seeds will eat breads, rolled oats and a variety of seeds. To attract birds to your yard, plant the trees that they like—birch, hackberry, mulberry and shrubs with fruit," Mrs. Cassle advised.

The club adjourned with a desire to help our birds live with us.

Former Hamlin Girl, Terry Stringer, Weds Jerry Curtis Friday

Terry Frances Stringer, formerly of Hamlin, and Lieutenant Thomas Jerry Curtis were married Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Uvalde Baptist Church at Houston.

Rev. Bill Luton and Rev. John Osteen, formerly pastor of the Hamlin First Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Stringer, former Hamlin residents. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Curtis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of chantilly lace and tulle over satin. Portrait neckline was formed of the lace pattern and pleated nylon tulle. The bouffant skirt was lace paneled in front and the back panel fell full chapel train length. Her tulle veil fell from a tiara of pearls of rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of lily of the valley, stephanotis and an orchid.

Her attendants, Doyleene Albright, maid-of-honor; Delores Teaff, cousin of the bride of Sweetwater; and Anita Jaynes and Sandra Smith, bridesmaids, were dressed in waltz length costumes of taffeta. The honor maid wore coral, the others aqua. They carried cascades of matching carnations.

On a wedding trip to Austin the bride wore a navy shantung suit with white and navy accessories.

Mrs. Curtis is a graduate of Galena Park High School in Houston and attended Sam Houston State College at Huntsville. Lieutenant Curtis is a pilot stationed at Ellington Air Force Base at Houston.

The newlyweds will live at 1000 Holland Street, Galena Park.

State Capital NEWS

By Vera Sanford, Reporter, Texas Press Association

“Line die” is the magic phrase around the capitol now. It’s the phrase traditionalists use to the final adjournment time agreed on by both houses of the Legislature.

House and Senate have passed the bill which was recommended by Governor Price Daniel. It would permit juries to assess the death penalty on second conviction for sale of any narcotic drug to a minor.

Auto Registration Tax.—State tax system would be overhauled under a measure which would permit House approval. If passed, the constitutional amendment would abolish the property tax on motor vehicles. Legislature would be given authority to increase registration fees by one-third. Revenue would be divided between school districts and city or county.

Farm Bill Shleved.—A bill to replace Commissioner of Agriculture John White’s office with a 11-member board went to House subcommittee. White declared the bill was dead.

Segregation Bill Okayed.—A bill regarded as the cornerstone of a program to maintain school segregation won its second round House vote. It would allow local boards to assign pupils to schools on basis of “qualifications, aptitudes,” etc. An amendment also gives the boards authority to exempt a child from compulsory attendance at an integrated school.

Senate Confirms.—Joe P. Gibbs will serve on the Board of Insurance Commissioners until September 1. Measures now before the Legislature would abolish the present board and substitute a new set-up between now and September.

Ethics Bill Vets Out.—After weeks of haggling in the House the code of ethics bill whizzed through the Senate in one day. It goes to the governor’s desk with 29 to 0 Senate approval. Bill provides that no legislator engage in any outside activity in substantial conflict with the public interest. Penalty is expulsion or dismissal.

Narcotics Bill Passes.—A possible death penalty for dope peddling passed the House.

motorists and pedestrians obey traffic laws and regulations most of the time. If they didn’t our accident rates would soar to even greater heights.

“Statistics show that traffic law violators figure largely in traffic fatalities. In four out of five fatal accidents one or more driver violations are reported.

“Many of these violators feel that only suckers obey the laws. They know all the angles and short cuts. You know these characters—the ones who always overdrive the posted speed limits. They jump the red lights at intersections. They weave from lane to lane and sneak by on your right if you slow down at an intersection. They never really stop at stop signs.

Citing the record, Musick said the most frequent violations reported in fatal traffic accidents are excessive speed, failure to yield the right-of-way, failure to keep to the right of the center line and disregard of an officer or traffic control device.

Youths Conduct Panel Program at Lions Club Session

Five youths from Hamlin High School presented a panel program on problems of young people when they spoke at the Tuesday noon luncheon of Hamlin High School at the oil mill guest house.

Acting as moderator of the group, Judy Harden opened the discussion and presented the other members of the panel. Sara Kay Fomby discussed “What Are the Youths to Do?” She presented the limited recreation possibilities for youth in the community and suggested a youth center sponsored by civic clubs and churches of the community.

Elizabeth Morton discussed “The American Home,” showing how the home can help solve the youth problem with guidance, cooperation, example, love and security.

Judy talked on “Society,” showing that a positive program, high standards and friendliness contribute to solving the youth problems.

Jerry Fred Jay talked on “What Young People Can Do for the Church,” urging a feeling of responsibility and a definite part in the church and community on the part of young folks.

Davey Weaver’s topic was “What the Church Can do for Youth,” pointing to the church’s responsibility to youth. He likewise urged fostering of a recreation center by churches of the community.

Mag Fullerton, who will direct the Lions Club Minstrel on May 3, gave plans for the presentation. Tickets for the benefit show were distributed to members.

Only the U. S. President and the governor of Massachusetts have the official legal title of “Excellency.”

Good Crop Prospects Make Caution About Cotton Insects More Imperative

Moisture conditions over most of Texas are the best in years—giving hopes for good crops. During drouth years, cotton insect control is of relatively minor importance. But, when moisture is adequate and conditions are favorable for making a good cotton crop, insects are often the big limiting factor.

Hamlin area cotton growers are concerned, therefore, about the problem of insects this season.

Cotton growers in every section of the state have demonstrated

A. & M. Exes Invited To Annual Muster At Haskell April 20

Annual Aggie muster of former students of A. & M. College of Texas who live in Haskell, Jones, Stonewall, Knox and Kent Counties will be held April 20 in Haskell to carry on a tradition that is 54 years old this year.

Scheduled to begin at 100 p. m. on Saturday, the 1957 muster program will be held in the Corral building at Fair Park in Haskell.

The evening program will include a chuck wagon supper, regular memorial muster service, and a short business meeting for election of officers.

A muster is held each year by students and former students of Texas A. & M. to pay their respects to fellow Aggies who have passed on and as an humble tribute to the Texans who won the freedom of the state in the Battle of San Jacinto near Houston 121 years ago.

All A. & M. College men and students are urged to attend this muster program, declares Royce Adkins of Haskell, muster chairman.

that insects damage can be prevented. As a result, yields up to five bales per acre have been produced with the aid of irrigation, heavy fertilization and insect control. Two and three-bale crops have been produced without irrigation in areas fortunate enough to receive timely rains.

The key to successful insect control is know-how, preparedness and getting the job done at the right time and in the right way. The 1957 Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects in Texas provides most of the answers. Additional information may be obtained from county agents, vocational agriculture teachers and others. It is the farmer's job to have the equipment and insecticides on hand when needed, and to use them wisely.

The early season control program is designed to prevent early damage, insect build-up, and to insure an early set of fruit. The program starts when the cotton is in the four-leaf stage or earlier if necessary. Poison applications are made at approximately weekly intervals until the plants reach the one-third grown square stage—about 10 days after the first squares are set.

The early season insect control program is considered a must in many sections of Texas and has been established as a part of the regular farming operation. With moisture, early season control should be highly profitable in all areas where thrips, fleahoppers or boll weevils, alone or in combination, cause damage.

Farmers should also be prepared to apply poison later in the season when the infestation and crop prospect justify.

All human wisdom is summed up on two words—wait and hope. —Alexandre Dumas the Elder.

"ANYTHING YOU CAN DO..."—As parents know, a six-year-old boy can do just about anything, and it would be mighty surprising if Gary McFarridge let a blowfish win this puffing contest. This little puffer is one of many tropical fish that are on display in a Dallas department store. The puffing may be a toss-up, but Gary goes ahead on freckles. However, a challenge to "make like an Easter egg" would surely even the score.

Good Breakfast Vital To Health, Declares County Home Agent

Two out of three Americans eat too little breakfast. How about you? A good breakfast can prevent that empty, shaky feeling that often hits around 11:00 a. m. when breakfast has been inadequate, says Mary Y. Newberry, Jones County home demonstration agent.

A good breakfast pattern goes something like this: Fruit, cereal, eggs, toast and beverage. It should contain about one-third of the total daily food needs. Vary the basic pattern by the kind of fruit, cereal or bread you use, and by the way you prepare the eggs.

If you plan breakfast around a cereal, be sure to include milk, meat or eggs, too, in order to get the most from the incomplete protein of the cereal. Animal foods contain complete protein.

Keep the menu simple and easy to prepare. Allow time for all family members to eat leisurely and enjoy the meal. An attractive centerpiece and colorful mats or dishes will spark appetites and add interest to this important meal.

In this process, already used for cleaning small parts, ultrasonic sound waves activate the cleaning solvent by high frequency energy in the form of mechanical vibrations. ## Nature Helping Game Comeback, Says Commission

Nature will not regret any of the smiles currently being bestowed on Texas, reports the director of wildlife restoration for the Game and Fish Commission.

"It begins to look like the old days," he said. "Fat deer, strutting wild turkeys, cooing doves, mating bobwhites—the entire animal kingdom is making spring pop out all over."

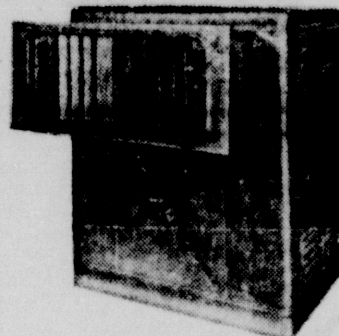

"Field men describe almost ideal conditions in almost all parts of the state, as food and cover seem destined to be restored to the pre-drought status. Of course, the weather could turn dry again. But, man, this seems like the real start on a fine comeback for all species."

The director, who is a national authority on wild turkey culture, said he was particularly happy over the first genuine prospects for a normal turkey hatch in the last six or seven years.

Texas was noted for having more than all other states put together before the drought scoured the ranges and decimated the flocks. "Now," said the director, "cover is generally adequate and native feed should be plentiful." He said brood stock is "fairly satisfactory" for turkeys as well as for other game animals and birds. "With moisture," he grinned, "we can regain much of our losses in a hurry."

New Pasture Grasses Being Demonstrated In County Projects

A three-year improved pasture grass demonstration has been initiated in Jones County, according to Bill Lehmborg, county agent.

The grasses to be grown include common sudan, sweet sudan, sorghum alnum and the new perennial sudan grass. They will be planted in two replications of two rows each. The rows will be 15 feet long and cover a width of about 400 feet.

Farmers who are establishing the grass plots include Joe Culbertson of Hamlin, C. M. Brown of Noodle and Gerald Proctor, Avoca vocational agriculture instructor.

The grasses will be compared on the basis of germination, seedling vigor, rapidity of growth, and recovery after clipping to simulate grazing. They will be clipped each time they reach a height of two feet.

These grasses will be planted in the near future, and everyone interested is encouraged to watch the farm nearest them.

"Plus" Driver Is Definite Asset to Safety in Traffic

"Be a 'plus' driver. Offset the other fellow's blunders by your defensive tactics!"

This advice was given to motorists this week by J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, as he urged them to cooperate fully with the defensive driving program of TSA.

This program is part of the back-the-attack-on-traffic-accidents campaign designed to cut down the 1957 traffic toll. The spring phase of back-the-attack places emphasis on the responsibility of the driver for his own and others' safety.

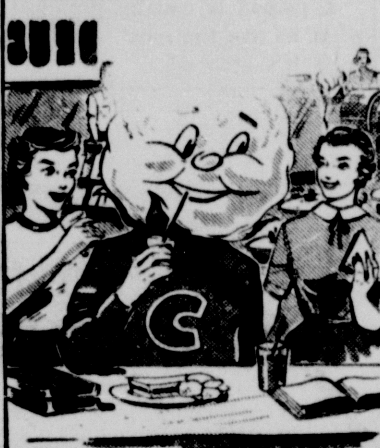

"Many of the cases that come before the courts concern accidents that need never have happened," Musick said. "If the 'innocent' party in the accident had foreseen the danger in time, had known what to do, and had done it quickly, there might not have been an accident."

He pointed out that the driver's responsibility goes further than driving safely himself, knowing and obeying traffic laws, keeping his car in good mechanical condition, and driving only when he is in good physical condition.

"A driver might do all these things and still be involved in an accident through the unsafe behavior of a pedestrian or another driver," Musick said. "The 'plus' driver goes a step further. He is constantly alert to the accident potential of pedestrians, other drivers, and traffic and weather conditions."

Money Management Taught Children Now May Be Future Help

When children beg and tease for nickels, dimes and quarters, parents may be using the wrong approach to the problem. Money management has to be learned as do reading, writing or arithmetic, according to Extension Service home management specialists. So learning this job, one step at a time, is part of a child's education.

Parents who have tried allowances for children report that usually less money is required than by the unplanned "hand out" method. Even more important, the child gets valuable training and satisfaction from learning how to get the most for his money. A personal allowance increases a child's pride and interest in cooperating with the family group.

Amendment Makes Employer Liable for Issuing "Hot Check"

An amendment to the Texas "hot check" law that makes employers liable for paying their employees with checks that "bounce" has been signed into law by Governor Price Daniel.

Charles T. Lux, executive vice president of the Retail Merchants Association of Texas, said the new amendment closes a loophole in the "hot check" law. "Until this amendment was signed, a retail business or any other place of business that accepted worthless checks presented in good faith by workers had practically no legal recourse to recover its loss," Lux said.

"Now under the new amendment employers who give checks that prove to be 'hot' are subject to criminal prosecution and may be fined up to $2,000 and sent to

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

By Tex Easley, AP Washington Correspondent

Washington.—For the rest of his life William A. Blakley, Dallas multi-millionaire businessman and lawyer, rates the title of senator.

But he says: "I hope my friends will just keep on calling me Bill, and I expect them to."

Such a reaction is typical of the tall, quiet speaking Texan whose trim figure, flashing dark eyes and dark hair belie his 58 years.

Although Blakley is a majority stockholder in Braniff Airways, owns vast cattle ranches in Texas and New Mexico and among other activities is building a $125,000,000 shopping center in Dallas, he was surprisingly little known by the public until appointed to the U. S. Senate on January 15.

He modestly disclaims any right to distinction on the basis of service in Congress.

"Having been appointed rather than elected," he mused, "I know better than anyone that I do not rate in the same category with those who were sent here by the will of the people.

"But I do take pride in the fact that Governor Shivers thought highly enough of me to make the appointment. And I will always treasure the experience. No one can serve in the Senate without being a better American."

Blakley was urged by many friends to be a candidate in the April 2 special election but turned down the suggestions with a statement thanking those with such confidence in him and saying he never had sought political office and was not interested in a political career.

Seated at the same big mahogany desk which Governor Price Daniel, his immediate predecessor, had occupied, Blakley talked of his few weeks as a member of the world's greatest deliberative body. He spoke praise for the Senate and its role in democratic processes. The fondness in his voice made one think he was perhaps wishing he might remain a member.

"The sense of responsibility grips you," he continued. "You must weigh your words and actions much more than you do when you speak to a friend standing on the curb."

Asked whether he would suggest any changes in procedures of the Senate, he replied it would be presumptuous on his part even to think of such a thing in view of brief tenure. He went on to laud the wisdom of founding fathers who set up the tri-partite American government and to voice a hope that the legislative branch would never let the executive nor the judicial branch usurp any of its functions.

Even the long-winded speeches of some senators, some of which last hours with only three or four other senators in the chamber, were defended by Blakley. Or, rather, the rules which permit such unlimited oratory.

"Sometimes the privileges senators enjoy are abused," he added, "but I would never want to curb such basic rights as free and unlimited debate."

He also defended the seniority system which gives the committee chairmanships to those who have served the longest on each committee, pointing out that a man who has won approval of the voters repeatedly and spent years on a particular committee is, generally speaking, well qualified for leadership. Any other system might make it easier for a con- vining fellow to get control of such a position, Blakley added.

OLD FASHIONED.

Packages of pre-cut cotton fabrics with thread, buttons, belts and other accessories are put together quickly and easily by women who sew. The complete package is priced at under ten dollars. ### Estimated Six from County Enter Armed Services in February

An estimated six young men from Jones County entered the armed services during the month of February while an estimated five were separated.

A total of 3,202 Texans entered the armed forces during February, and 2,932 were reported as being separated from active service during the same time.

This was contained in a report Thursday from the office of Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state selective service director, to Lieutenant General Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director.

Of the 3,202 entries into the uniformed services from Texas during February, only 816 were through the draft boards, the remaining 2,386 individuals going into uniform by enlistment or other voluntary means.

State selective service in February forwarded 2,550 men to armed forces joint examining and induction stations from pre-induction physical and mental examinations.

Of this number, 1,582 were found acceptable, the remaining 968 unacceptable, a rejection rate of approximately 38 per cent.

Figures may not lie, but some get snarled up in statistics.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

A Public Service Feature of the State Bar of Texas

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

COURT RULES PRESERVE JUSTICE.

Are you hopelessly confused by court room procedure? Words such as "objections," "overruled," "sustained," "hearsay," "irrelevant" or "opinion" are meaningless to many persons.

The purpose of a trial is to settle disputes that the parties cannot settle by themselves. Before these disputes can be settled, the facts which give rise to them must be established. This sounds simple, but on the contrary it is a difficult task. If the parties agreed on the facts the job would be easy, but each side has its own version.

The trial court has the job of establishing the facts. This is accomplished by questioning witnesses and the introduction of physical evidence. This requires application of the rules of evidence.

Through the years the law of evidence has been established. The rules place restraints on what type of evidence is proper. They have the effect of protecting the rights of the parties by insuring a fair trial.

Hearsay is a word often heard during a trial. Hearsay may involve a statement by a third person of a conversation between two other persons. It would be hearsay if Jones were asked to tell the court what he overheard Smith tell Greene. With certain exceptions, evidence of this type is excluded because it is not reliable, and might open the door to false testimony.

A lawyer objects to evidence he does not believe is proper. If a lawyer objects to evidence because it is irrelevant, he means that the evidence is of such little importance that it has no bearing on the case, and if admitted it would bog down the trial so that the time needed does not justify its admission.

Opinion evidence of one not an expert is not admissible since such opinion carries no weight.

When an objection is sustained by the judge the evidence is not received. Should the objection be overruled, the evidence is allowed to be presented.

The rules of evidence have been built up through many years of court trials. These rules are not arbitrary but are designed to see that justice is done in our courts.

The judge is seeking to have the truth established and insure that all parties and witnesses in the trial are given a full and fair opportunity to present the facts.

Deferred Grazing Will Help Pastures Recover from Inroads of Long Drouth

Range deferment may be what your pasture needs, point out leaders of the California Creek Soil Conservation District. Continuing they say: Listed are some things to consider in deferring a pasture:

1. Rest during the growing season gives best results. Deferring a pasture from May through July will increase the vigor of grass and permit it to spread vegetatively.
2. Fall deferment for a couple of months beginning September 1 allows better grasses to seed and store plant food in the roots.
3. On pastures that are in poor or fair condition deferment for two growing seasons will insure a faster recovery.
4. Remove all livestock during the deferment period.
5. Provide temporary pastures when deferring a pasture to avoid over-use of other pastures.

In what state of health is your native grassland? If your better grasses are beginning to thin out a prescribed rest period just might be what it needs.

During our February rains more moisture was lost to run-off from pasture land than cultivated fields. This being due to lack of vegetation to induce moisture intake on rangeland.

The drouth has contributed considerably to the poor condition of our pastures. However, the failure to reduce our herds has done more damage to our grass than dry weather. We have fair moisture, and our weakened plants are trying to come back. These weak plants cannot withstand much grazing for several weeks. The green in our pastures consists of winter and spring annual grasses and weeds which will soon disappear.

It may be well to defer grazing while the most desirable plants are producing seed. Seed produced during the rest period will help revegetate some of the bare areas. Take a look at that grazing land. Find out which seasonal deferment best fits your case. If in doubt, why not consult your local Soil Conservation District supervisor, Soil Conservation Service technician or county agent.

Deferred grazing is not a cure-all; however, it might be a helpful medicine in the recovery of your grassland.

Good Friday Service Set by First Methodist

A Good Friday service will be held in First Methodist Church Friday, April 19, from 12:00 to 1:00 p. m., announces the pastor, Rev. Darrs L. Egger. The service will consist of scripture reading, meditation, prayer and a communion service. Everyone is invited to participate in this Good Friday service, the pastor advises.

The church will be open all day Friday for those who desire to go for a period of silent meditation and devotion, it is announced.

Users Urged to Be Cautious as They Handle Potent Insecticides for Insects

As man has endeavored to control insects that are damages the crops of the area, it is pointed out by County Agent Bill Lehmberg that the organic insecticides and miticides have proven effective for pest control but they must be used with precaution in order to protect the handler.

Although many of the new insecticides are not as toxic to man as some of the older ones, their use has sometimes brought on problems.

Insecticide injury to man may result from oral or respiratory intake or by skin absorption. Certain solvents used in preparing insecticide solutions or emulsions are inflammable and most of them are poisonous to some degree.

Most of the chlorinated hydrocarbons are reasonably safe at strengths normally applied to crops and livestock. However, in concentrated form, they may cause acute poisoning. Continued exposure, with no regard to safety measures, to the lower concentrations may result in accumulation of the chemical in the body with possible eventual tissue or organic injury.

Many of the phosphorus compounds, such as parathion, methyl parathion, EPN, TEPP, demeton, diazinon, phosdrin, thimet and guthion are extremely poisonous and must be handled with care at all times. These insecticides are much more poisonous to warm blooded animals than most other chemicals used for insect control, and the manufacturer's directions should be followed strictly at all times.

The physiological activity of the phosphorus compounds in both insects and warm blooded animals is primarily inhibition of the cholinesterase enzyme. Repeated exposure to these chemicals may reduce the cholinesterase level gradually to the point where symptoms occur. Symptoms of phosphorus insecticide poisoning include headache, pinpoint pupils, blurred vision, weakness, nausea, abdominal cramps, diarrhea and tightness in the chest.

Store sprays and dusts away from children and irresponsible people as well as foods and feeds.

10. Follow instructions on the manufacturer's label.

Dr. Wayland J. Hayes of the U. S. Public Health Service at Savannah, Georgia, is an authority on the treatment of poisoned cases. We suggest that any doctor call Dr. Hayes for detailed information on symptoms and treatment.

With the increased use of these highly toxic materials, it is essential that we stress safety measures at every opportunity, the county agent says. Listed below are some important points to remember when handling and using these insecticides:

1. All applicators, when handling highly toxic insecticides, must avoid breathing the dust, vapor or spray and avoid skin contact.
2. Respirators which meet the specifications of U. S. Bureau of Mines should be worn when handling or working around highly toxic insecticides.
3. Gloves and freshly laundered protective clothing should be worn when handling highly toxic insecticides.
4. If highly toxic insecticides are spilled on skin or clothing, work should be stopped immediately and the person should bathe with soap and water, and change clothing.
5. All persons handling highly toxic insecticides should bathe and change clothing immediately after finishing the job.
6. All persons and livestock should be protected from drifts, sprays or dusts.
7. Do not enter fields within two or three days after treatment with highly toxic insecticide.
8. All regular handlers of highly toxic phosphorus insecticides at intervals not greater than 10 should have cholinesterase tests during the period they are working with the material. (See your local doctor regarding these tests).
9. Store sprays and dusts away from children and irresponsible people as well as foods and feeds.

TELEPHONE TALK

Open House

How long has it been since you have visited a telephone central office? Even if it was only yesterday, you are welcome to visit the telephone building in Sweetwater during our open house on April 25 and 26. The hours are from 2:00 to 4:00 and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. on both days.

There you will see the largest switching center for long distance calls in West Texas. Yes, it's the largest switching center west of Fort Worth.

This machine handles all calls from Amarillo to the southern border and from El Paso to Cisco. Since the date this machine was put into use, which was March 17, it has switched as high as 70,000 calls in a single day. An average day is from 40,000 calls to 45,000 calls.

With the installation of this switching equipment, long distance calls in this area have been speeded up to nearly twice as fast.

In addition to this switching machine, you will be taken on a guided tour of the entire building, including the local telephone equipment rooms, power room and the long distance operating room.

Among the exhibits that you will see will be the Bell Solar Battery and a "see-your-voice" machine. We will have a working model of the Solar Battery. It will be used to provide power for an electric motor simply by capturing the heat waves of the sun and transforming them into commercial power.

In addition to the Bell Solar Battery, open house visitors will also get to see their own voice on the screen of an Oscilloscope.

Yes, I believe that you and your family will enjoy what we have to show you.

Remember, the hours are from 2:00 to 4:00 and from 7:00 to 9:00 on April 25 and 26 at the telephone building, 211 East Fourth Street in Sweetwater.

Programs for Your Group

Watching a movie at a Service Club meeting the other day reminded me to tell you about free-loan motion pictures we keep in our telephone film library.

Altogether I guess we have about 600 different 16-mm. films. All are sound films—many are in color. Some are short ones—just eight or 10 minutes. Others run 20 or 30 minutes, even up to an hour. Any of these films would add entertainment to your club program or other group meetings.

School teachers also find telephone films useful as classroom visual aids.

Any time you'd like to borrow a film from us, just call the telephone business office. If possible, try to give us a few weeks' notice so we can make sure it's available the day you need it.

Also, if you'd like to call and give us your name and address, I'd be glad to send you a free catalog that lists and describes the film and other program materials we have.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

Need for More Brains in World Today City by Roger W. Babson, Economist

Two basic financial problems are facing every city and town today, points out Roger W. Babson, well known business analyst and economist, in his weekly release to The Herald. His article continues:

(1) Higher interest rates must be paid for all money borrowed, including that for new schools, and there is a shortage of money at any cost. (2) Increased salaries are being demanded by teachers, and there is a shortage of teachers at any wage.

Almost all other groups of workers have increased production as their wages have risen; but the carpenters use electric tools; the painters spray instead of using hand brushes; the doctors make quicker "calls" by telephone; while stores are fast adopting "self service." Even the blond typist uses an electric typewriter while, her boss uses a soundcriber. The housewife herself has cut down her work so as to make it necessary to employ maids and laundries, and, in fact, she can even earn money by an outside part-time job.

With the faithful school teacher the results are often the opposite. It is true that she has been given more "things" to teach and to talk about. These have been forced upon her school superintendent by high pressure textbook salesmen and politicians. These outside "things" take the teacher's time and strength. I greatly sympathize with all school teachers in their predicament.

But the fact is that her production does not increase in efficiency and usefulness as her salary is increased. The good women now teaching my grandchildren get more than double the pay which the teachers received when I was in school. I, however, am convinced that these children do not get the training that I had 50 years ago. Moreover, every employer will say that the product of our schools is not as good as it formerly was. Furthermore, we employers are not allowed to "return the goods and get our money back" when the work of a graduate is inefficient and careless.

Basically, the job of a school teacher is to help her pupils develop their brains. If this has been properly accomplished, the other needs—character, health, posture and personality—will naturally follow. Yet, our public school students are not taught anything today about their brain. They utterly fail to realize its marvelous powers, how it works, and its tremendous unused possibilities. In fact, only in the past year did I get interested in my own brain through Dr. George Russel Harrison, the wonderful MIT dean of science. Write him for a copy of his article in a recent Atlantic Monthly. (Please enclose needed return postage).

Now here is a suggestion which those responsible for the cost of the teaching of your children should seriously consider. Begin in the lower grades to interest the children in their brains. Instead of giving them "CAT" as the first word to spell, give them "BRAINS" to spell! Have at the top of every report card these words: "Brain Is Working." Constantly keep the children conscious of their brain and its marvelous possibilities.

Recently I asked some boys what kind of reading interested them most. One replied, "Airplane engines;" another said, "Space flying;" while a third said, "To understand how a TV works." Then when I began to tell them of the marvelous machinery inside their own heads, they were fascinated. I gave them one illustration of what happens when they see an object, and how the light waves reflected therefrom are changed to electrical impulses which in turn are registered and stored in a minute memory compartment of their brain to be taken out and used years later.

My point is this: Physiologists tell us that we are using our brains at only three per cent of capacity. If so, think what it would mean to our future and the future of the nation to increase this three per cent to only six per cent. It could not only only double the efficiency of every public school graduate, but it could double our standard of living and it could make every one of us better, healthier and happier. Then every teacher would gladly be given double her present salary and more!

You have to work for everything. The pot of gold is at the end of the rainbow, not at the beginning.

Draft Registration In State Passes 1,000,000-Man Line

State draft board registration passed the 1,000,000 mark in February, a consolidation of local board reports revealed Tuesday.

The consolidated report, made by state selective service headquarters at Austin to the national headquarters in Washington, showed that the state had 995,232 men registered at the end of January, and 1,000,945 at the end of February.

At the end of 17 days of registration in August and September, 1948, when the draft law required that all men register between the ages of 18 and 25, a total of 450,183 males of those ages had signed registration cards.

Since that time, there has been a continuing requirement for all males to register on their eighteenth birthday or within five days thereafter. Under such requirement it has taken about eight and one-half years for the registration rolls to reach 1,000,000 men.

As men grow older after they register, some lose their draft liability at age 26, some at age 28 and others not until they are 35 years old, depending upon deferments. Some deferments keep individuals liable for induction longer. No matter whether their liability ceases at ages 26, 28 or 35, draft registrants always have the liability of keeping their local boards informed of their current mailing address.

Since the present draft law was enacted in 1948, all males born since August 30, 1932, have had and now have a legal obligation to register, except those not yet 18.

2,611 Texas People Died in Traffic Accidents in 1956

Colonel Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced the official figures today for the 1956 highway traffic death count in a release to The Herald.

Garrison said that with the official closing of the 1956 books on traffic deaths that 2,611 persons had been killed during the year and economic loss in the state amounted to $229,685,450.

He said his figures, compiled by N. K. Woerner, chief of the department's statistical division, show that 111,501 persons were injured during the year of 1956 and that there were a total of 228,832 motor vehicle accidents.

The state police director said the 1956 death count represented an all-time high with 64 more deaths than were placed on the books during the record breaking year of 1955 with 2,547 fatalities. "Actually," he said, "there was a three per cent increase in traffic deaths in Texas last year in comparison with 1955, and our death rate per 100,000,000 miles of travel raised only slightly to 6.5 as compared with 6.4 deaths per 100,000,000 miles of travel in 1955."

Garrison said several factors must be considered in the fatality figure. "We have more automobiles than ever before in our state and we are driving more miles than ever before. But that is no reason to expect an increased number of deaths in traffic accidents."

"With more driving we have become lax in our attitudes toward breaking traffic laws, and we have become selfish in our driving habits. The traffic officer can do only so much in removing dangerous drivers from the road; we need the full cooperation of the motoring public in making 1957 a safer year on our streets and highways."

The final count of the traffic fatalities is withheld until March 15 each year because of late deaths that occur as the result of traffic accidents during the calendar year.

An old saying declares that truth lies at the bottom of a well. These days it is more likely to lie buried under a pile of propaganda.

100,000 Children Have Unqualified Teachers in Texas

More than 100,000 Texas school children are in classrooms without a qualified teacher, Dana Williams, Texas State Teachers Association president, said this week in a release to The Herald.

Williams pointed out that the Texas Education Agency this school year has issued 3,062 emergency teaching certificates to persons who could not qualify for a regular certificate.

The education agency is now issuing "teaching permits" at the rate of more than 125 each week, Williams said. These are granted to persons who are "the best available" and many have only a high school diploma.

"I think the people of Texas ought to have this information," the TSTA leader said, "because it is an alarming situation."

Now pending before the fifty-fifth Legislature is an emergency teacher pay raise bill which would help solve the problem by keeping experienced teachers in the classroom and attracting new and qualified ones, he explained. It would provide $399 increase to $3,204 in the state base minimum, plus $180 in increments.

"It now appears that only $200 per teacher will be available for increased teachers' salaries, if all the money remaining after the general appropriations bill is used for this purpose. This will not do the job; this will not solve the problem."

"More money must be provided by the Legislature if Texas citizens are to keep qualified teachers for Texas boys and girls," declared Williams.

Being a column in which the publisher just "blows off the steam."

A LETTER from Mrs. Ruby (Austin) Poe to The Herald has information that will be of interest to many of their friends in Hamlin, where they lived for many years:

"Austin and I are settled in our new home and are very happy with our location—1214 Lois Street in Kerville. We miss all our good friends in Hamlin, but we are looking forward to many nice visits from them."

"Monday of this week Bill Feagan, his wife and children came by for a visit. Yesterday Fred B. Moore, his wife and children came by. Johnny Bryant, his wife and Cindy were here recently. Also the Ted Russells."

TWO MEN were sitting in the lobby of a blood donor station. One was an Eastern tourist, the other an Apache Indian. After staring a few minutes, the tourist could contain his curiosity no longer.

"Are you really a full blooded Indian?" he asked.

"Well, no," the Apache replied thoughtfully, "I'm one pint short."

GLOOMY DAYS cannot continue always. Shadows are sent that we may more fully appreciate the sunshine. When troubles come, be thankful for the pleasant experience of the past, and for the pleasant expectations of the future. "The eternal stars shine out as soon as it is dark enough."

If there isn't a star within your sky,
Pretend it's there!
Why, a make-believe one, swung wide and high,
Is just as fair!
If you put it where you'll see it every night,
Just where the sky's particularly bright,
Your star is sure to guide your steps aright.

If there isn't any sunshine in your day,
Why, put some in!
If you've never made your sun that way,
Oh, do begin!
This sunshine-making's hard, but you won't mind;
Keep on, and when it's done you're apt to find
The home-made brand's the very nicest kind!

LA DOYCE LAMBERT, has this to say in his "I've Been Thinking" column in The Andrews County News:

Some psychology tests have tended to deflate the human ego by providing that they are not the only ones who have the capacity to learn. They have placed a chimpanzee in a cage and put a banana just outside. He was given a stick a few inches too short to reach the banana but long enough to reach another stick which was long enough to reach the fruit. After a period of study, the animal got the longer stick so that he could reach the banana.

Even the paramecium, a one-celled animal found in stagnant water, has been found capable of a rudimentary type of learning. A psychologist once put a paramecium in a drop of water, half of which was dark and half of which was in the light. The drop was heated so that the dark half was at normal temperature and the light was too hot. The paramecium "learned to avoid the light and did so afterward regardless of temperature."

I guess the moral of this story is: Never let an elephant sit on you.

DUTY IS DUTY no matter who is involved. A story we ran across the other day illustrates the point.

"Open the gate, my boy," said the rider who headed the hunting party.

"I'm sorry, sir," answered the boy, "but my father sent me to say that you must not hunt on his grounds."

"Do you know who I am?" demanded the man gruffly.

"No, sir," answered the boy.

"I am the Duke of Wellington."

The boy took off his cap to the great man. But he did not open the gate. "The Duke of Wellington will not ask me to disobey my father's orders," he said quietly.

Slowly the man took off his hat and smiled. "I honor the boy who is faithful to his duty," said the great man, and with that he and his party rode away.

Business People Are Urged to Respect Parking Regulations

Cars Allowed to Stand All Day in Reserved Places

Many business house operators and their employees are utilizing the parking space on Central Avenue and other streets for all-day parking of their automobiles, thus depriving customers and other visitors of the right to park, it was pointed out at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Hamlin Planning Board.

Members of the planning board, composed of 10 business men selected as representatives of the city's business interests, declare that it was their recommendation to the Hamlin City Council that parking meters continue to be kept from the streets in the belief that store operators and employees would leave for customers the parking spaces where meters formerly was placed. Disregard by many Hamlin business people of this policy may force the meters back into use, board members declare.

Store owners and employees are urged by the planning board to find parking space off the main streets as a means to encourage more visitors to town to stop and shop Hamlin.

CUTTING THE BUDGET IN ACTION—NOT TALK

A wave of budget cutting talk has swept Capitol Hill in Washington, apparently as a result of a groundswell of sentiment among the public concerning economy.

Not unconnected with this development are recent speeches by former President Herbert Hoover, former Vice President John N. Garner and many others, all of whom urged Congress to economize in the present period of inflation.

Senator Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, has said the budget must be cut and has proposed a budget of his own which would save billions of dollars. Minority House Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., Massachusetts Republican, says the Eisenhower budget is "unbearable" to the American people and he agrees that cuts must be made.

Other leaders in Congress agree that reductions are in prospect, and these leaders include both the leaders of the Senate. Therefore, it seems that the question of cuts is now settled and the only remaining factor of doubt is the amount the budget will be cut.

Folks in this far-away Hamlin territory are concerned with budget cutting efforts, and while most of the folks down here have no specific formula for cutting the national budget but they do believe that their government should set the example as a business-like operation by paying its own way, not spending more than it takes in, and refuse to be a continuing part of false economy. They believe that the government could do without thousands and thousands of folks who are on the government payroll at fat salaries who do very little work of a constructive nature; they believe generally that the government is wasting millions and millions of dollars in foreign aid, military spending and wastefulness; they believe that a check of the huge list of people getting government checks for one reason or another would reveal thousands of panhandlers and unworthy recipients.

President Eisenhower's budget calls for an outlay of $71,800,000,000. In many circles a $65,000,000,000 limit is considered preferable, although we do not believe Congress will have the sheer fortitude to whack more than $6,000,000,000 off the Eisenhower budget. We do think Congress would be well to trim the budget to less than $70,000,000,000 and apply what is saved to tax cuts.

There are those who believe that the saving should be applied to the reduction of the national debt, but we believe it is in the interest of the country to apply these savings to tax cuts and that these tax cuts will improve the picture for business expansion and the creation of new jobs.

We do not agree that a reasonable tax cut would bring on inflation, which we realize is a generally accepted theory, for we are of the opinion that the threat of inflation has been checked to a greater degree than is recognized at the present time.

There are those who believe that the saving should be applied to the reduction of the national debt, but we believe it is in the interest of the country to apply these savings to tax cuts and that these tax cuts will improve the picture for business expansion and the creation of new jobs.

Bank deposits in the Farmers & Merchants National Bank continue to hold up despite the drought in the section, according to the official statement issued this week. Deposits totaled $4,715,346.95 at the close of business on March 31, the statement shows.

LaFoy Patterson was elected new president of the Hamlin Consolidated Independent School District board of trustees in its reorganization meeting held Monday night.

Copies of the 1952 edition of The Piper, annual of Hamlin High School, were being distributed at school this week. The yearbook features an old-time theme, and uses old pictures of students and scenes to good advantage.

Oil activity in the Hamlin section continues to buzz despite inclement weather, and prospects for additional production soon loom brightly, say area operators.

ONE YEAR AGO.

Considered news a year ago, by The Herald were the following items, reproduced in brief from the issue dated April 19, 1956:

Steel curb and gutter forms and street paving equipment recently purchased by the City of Hamlin have been received, and a renewed campaign of curb and gutter and street paving is planned, say members of the City Council.

Edgar Duncan was elected new president of Hamlin Lions Club in the annual election Tuesday.

Scholastics in Jones County for next year show a further decline, according to the county superintendent. The enumeration this spring showed 4,332 compared with 4,377 for last year and 4,367 for 1954-55.

Ann Cochran, senior at Hamlin High School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cochran, was made queen of the annual school carnival held Friday evening.

Prewitt Motors Given Plaque by Seiberling

Prewitt Motors has been presented an attractive plaque by Seiberling Rubber Company to mark the fifth anniversary of Gene Prewitt's exclusive franchise with the Akron rubber concern. Prewitt accepted the plaque from Patrick Cohan, territory manager for Seiberling.

Prewitt Motors was granted its franchise from Seiberling in 1951. The firm has been in business in Hamlin for almost six years as a distributor for Chrysler and Plymouth automobiles.

In addition to serving as a city councilman, Prewitt is a member of the First Baptist Church and the Hamlin Rotary Club.

Not only is it true that all the fools aren't dead, but most of them seem to be far more vigorous and active than ever.

Producers for a Free Market

The Headlight of Horton, Kansas, reports that "production of beef cattle in the United States has increased and improved every year since cattle numbers took an upward turn in 1949."

Production of other kinds of livestock has also been running at very high levels. New records have been set both in overall meat output and in per capita consumption.

Livestock is not the only agricultural crop which has shown major production gains. But it differs in one very fundamental respect from some of the others. It is not subjected to government controls, and it is not subsidized. So all the mountains of meat produced go into the channels of consumption. They do not go into government storage, at an enormous cost to the taxpayers.

Meat, in other words, moves in a free market, which is subject to the natural law of supply and demand and nothing else. Prices and production quotas are not arbitrarily fixed by fallible human beings. Livestock prices, naturally, have not always satisfied the producers, any more than meat prices have always satisfied consumers. But over the years this free market automatically sees to it that a fair price balance is maintained, and that producers and consumers get the best deal possible.

Most important of all in the long run, producers for the free market keep their independence and their power of decision. They are not forever subject to the unpredictable winds of politics.

Not Indispensable

Walter Damrosch, renowned orchestra leader, delights in telling this tale:

"Early in my career I made what I fancied was remarkable progress as a conductor, and came to consider 'myself' the irreplaceable leader of my fine little orchestra. But one night I was disillusioned.

"I was preparing to conduct a particularly ambitious program, when I discovered that I had forgotten my baton. I told my assistant to get it for me, when three violinists held up restraining hands. 'Don't mind,' each said, 'here's a baton,' and each produced one from an inner pocket. Never since that moment have I considered myself indispensable."

Fallacy of the Road

Statistics are often dull but there is one traffic statistic that intrigues us. Stated simply it is: In 82 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents one or more driver violations are reported.

In almost any issue of the paper you are likely to find an "accident" story. It might read something like this: "Two men were killed and another seriously injured in a two-car collision just south of the intersection of such-and-such highway last night..."

You read through looking for familiar names and then go to another story without further thought. These "accident" stories have become a standard part of the newspaper not unlike the financial pages, comic strips and sports results.

If you do give it a second thought, or if a friend is involved in a mishap, you feel helpless and humble as you wonder what unusual quirks of fate created the conditions which led to the "accident."

Perhaps you are wondering why the word "accidents" has been in quotation marks here. It's because the word is a misnomer for the terrifying smashes and collisions that occur every day on the highways.

Remember the statistic—in more than four out of five fatal traffic accidents a driver violation was reported. How many of these crashes would have occurred had there been no violations committed? No one can know. But one can certainly say that the number would have been far less than it is.

A fatalistic attitude toward traffic accidents only serves to complicate the traffic problem. The Texas Safety Association and National Safety Council have been hammering at this fallacy for years. "Accidents do not happen," they say; "they are caused!"

Unless the moral and intellectual climate of the road is strengthened we will go on wantonly killing innocents and kidding ourselves that we are without blame.

"What you ask is going to cost somebody a lot of money. Are you willing to pay the bills?" This answer was given by a government official to a group of citizens who had appeared to ask for a certain tax-financed project. His frank reply set them back on their heels and, after some discussion among themselves, they withdrew their request.—The Dillon, South Carolina, Herald.

Prices Steady on Fort Worth Market For Most Livestock After Slow Start

After a slow start prices on cattle and calves were mostly steady at Fort Worth Monday, declares Ted Gouley, special market reporter for The Herald, in his weekly market release. He continues: Fed cattle were again in small supply. Stockers and feeders found demand broad at fully steady to stronger prices, quality considered, and the high grade offerings were very scarce.

Comparative prices: Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $18.50 to $22, the higher figure on two loads of heavy steers. High choice to prime medium weight steers or yearlings were quotable above that range. Common and medium offerings sold from $13 to $18. Fat cows cashed at $12 to $14, while canners and cutters bulked at $9 to $12. Bulls sold from $10 to $15.

Good and choice slaughter calves sold from $20 to $23, and medium and lower grades from $12 to $18. Stocker steer calves drew $16 to $22, and were quotable above that range. Steer yearlings cashed at $21 down. Stock cows sold from $10 to $14.

In the special sale of stocker cows and pairs at Fort Worth last week the total of over 1,900 head included 1,258 which went back to country as replacement and some 350 aged cows and fat heifers went into packer channels.

Most of the pairs ranged from $140 to $165, with a few as high as $190 to $200. Some sold by the pound and others by the head. Typical of the strong rates for the better kinds was the shipment of 17 pairs consigned by Ray Boothe of Sweetwater which sold with the cows at $17 and the calves at $29.

Buyers from all over the South and Southwest were represented and most of the cattle went back to Texas pastures. Many of the visitors expressed surprise at the number of very thin cows which appeared in the offering despite the improved conditions in many sections of the Southwest this spring.

Next of these special sales will also be for all breeds, all ages, and will be held on May 10. It is expected this event will attract a good many yearlings, as was the case a year earlier. The May 10 event will include a show, as well as a sale, with both the Texas Hereford Association and the Texas Aberdeen-Angus Association judging entries of the breeds prior to the sale.

The offering of 7,800 sheep and lambs at Fort Worth Monday was cleared early at fully steady to strong prices. The offering was more than 75 per cent spring lambs. Old sheep were very scarce, and relatively few old crop shorn lambs arrived.

Comparative prices: Good and choice spring lambs cashed at $22 to $23.50, and cull to medium springers sold from $15 to $20. Some lightweight spring lambs sold as feeders in the $18 to $19 bracket. Good and choice shorn old crop lambs cashed at $19 to $21.50, those at the higher figure having No. 1 or No. 2 pelts. Shorter pelts sold from $20 down. Cull to medium old crop lambs cashed at $12 to $18. Slaughter ewes drew $5.50 to $6.50.

Choice butcher hogs scored $18 and $18.25 at Fort Worth Monday, this being an advance of 25 to 50 cents above last week's close. The less desirable weights and grades sold from $16 to $17.75, and pigs drew $10 to $14. Sows cashed at $14.50 to $16.

County Agent Bill Collier of Clay County was on the Fort Worth market Monday with a group of 4-H Club boys and girls

Sara Kay Fomby to Compete in Forensic Contests at Austin

Sara Kay Fomby, Hamlin High School senior, advanced to the state forensic meet in Austin last week-end after being declared the winner of girls' extemporaneous speaking in the district meet at Brownwood. Sara Kay competed against the boys' division since she had no competition in the girls' division.

The critic judge was impressed by Sara's speech, reports Doyle Smith, speech instructor at HHS. The contest is considered the most challenging of all speaking events. The speaker must choose one topic out of five, all of which are new to the speaker, and give an eight-minute speech after only 30 minutes' preparation. Miss Fomby's winning topic was "Can the U. S. Budget Be Cut in 1957?"

who sold their lambs at $20.50 and made a profit, he reported. Collier reported the lamb project had been an interesting one for the group, and the trip to market was a fitting climax to their project.

In the group were Carol Lee, Linda Lee, Bobby Lee, H. B. Stallcup, Terry Butler, Morris Sears and Cindy Cox. Adults with the group included Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lee, Harold Lee and Hopper Butler.

HHS Students Win Places at Regional Contests Saturday

Hamlin High School will have several entries in the state Inter-scholastic League contests when the literary events will be run off next week at Austin, by virtue of the school's showing at the Region II Class A and B contests held last Saturday at Brownwood.

Hamlin representatives won two first places and three seconds at the regional competition (despite the fact that no mention was made of the winners by Hamlin in a state paper coming to the area). Lampasas had the most first places in Class A with four, plus one second and three third places. Winters followed with three firsts and four seconds. Stamford, Comanche, Seymour and Hamilton each won one first place.

Taking first places in the regional literary events were: Sara Kay Fomby, girls' extemporaneous speaking; and Ginger Means in Class A shorthand. Elizabeth Norton of Hamlin also took second in the shorthand contests.

Other winners by Hamlin High School students were: Judy Harden in ready writing, second; Elva Siburt and Anna Lou Fudge, second in girls' debate; and Bob Haynes and Sonny Winegeart, second in boys' debate.

P-TA at McCaulley Hears Frank Crowder Speak at Gathering

Attendants at the McCaulley Parent-Teacher Association last week heard Frank Crowder of Roby discuss "Continuing Interest in the Needs of Our Schools." The session was held in the home-making cottage.

Mrs. Albert Maberry of Trent entertained the unit with piano selections.

In the business session, with Mrs. Orvel Hill of Golan presiding as president, the P-TA voted to present a scholarship to the most worthy graduating senior who plans to become a future teacher. A report was given on the district conference held recently at Snyder.

At the May 7 meet, prior to the reception for the newly elected officers, Mrs. W. C. Kean of McCaulley will officiate for the installation service. Visitors are always welcome, declare P-TA leaders.

JUST TRYING TO HELP.

The seven-year-old hopeful of a fisherman accompanied his father to a stream and wandered off for a walk. A few minutes later the father heard a strange cry of anguish, and found a man hopping on one foot, caressing the other foot, and groaning with pain.

"What's happened?" asked the father. "I guess it's my fault," said the seven-year-old. "This man told me he hadn't had a bite all morning—so I bit him."

A new age of automobiles begins with this car

Here Today! The FORD SKYLINER — world's only Hide-Away hardtop

Once in a long, long while a car comes along that people remember and talk about for years after its introduction.

The first model "A" Ford was such a car...
The first Ford V-8 was such a car...
The first Ford Thunderbird was such a car.

Today Ford Division is proud to announce still another car that many say is destined to become the most famous Ford of all: The Skyliner—world's only hide-away hardtop.

If you plan to buy a new Ford, or already own one, the fact that Ford created this car is important to you. For all the exhaustive research, planning and testing that went into the Skyliner is evidence of the engineering skill you get in every Ford model.

The Ford SKYLINER, the only all-steel hide-away hardtop, is a car for history. This is an old dream of Detroit, a dream of two generations of motorists.

And today Ford has made that dream come true—in steel.

But the story behind this dream is a story of men who refused to accept "no" for an answer. In the Ford tradition they kept striving toward the goal long after others had given up the chase.

To understand this Ford spirit you must go back to 1908. That was the year when many Detroiters smiled smugly as Henry Ford announced, "We will build a motor car for the great multitude... so low in price that no man making a good salary will be unable to own one."

And they did.

Today, nearly a half century later, Ford continues to cause the "experts" to change their tune. When you see this all-steel hardtop that retracts into a convertible, you'll be seeing a car that many said would never be mass-produced.

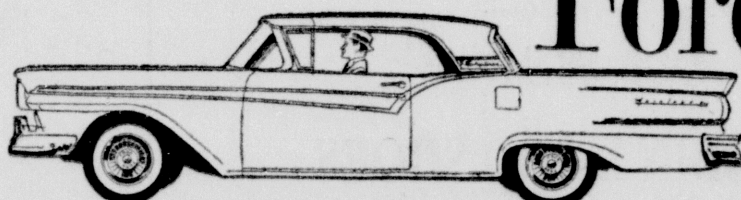

But Ford did it.

It was December 1956 — after eight years of research, planning, experimenting and testing—when Ford unveiled this masterpiece... unveiled it amid all the pomp and splendor of the New York Automobile Show.

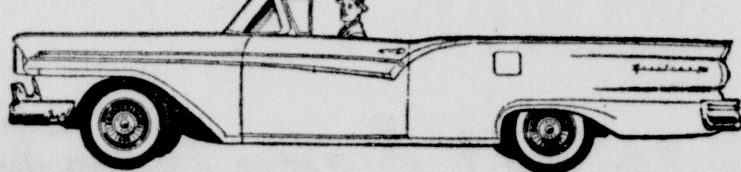

And now this history-making car, this prototype of a whole future generation of cars, is ready for your own personal inspection in the showrooms of many Ford Dealers.

Plan to see it soon. And ask your Dealer to show you the exciting advances in all models of the new Ford line for '57.

It's the newest new kind of Ford

1. It's an all-steel hardtop with sleek Victoria styling... 2. Touch a button and presto! It's a sun-loving convertible!

Hamlin Garden Club Members Tour New Dick Maberry Home at Meeting

New home of the Dick Maberrys was the setting of the Hamlin Garden Club regular meeting last Friday afternoon. Guests enjoyed a tour of the home and admiring the flower arrangements throughout the house by members of the club. Featured were iris in line arrangements by Mrs. C. R. Lovell and Mrs. Harold Bonner.

During the business session Mrs. Harold Bonner gave a review of the district Garden Club meeting in Stamford last week. Plans were made and details discussed for the Flower Show at Hamlin, which the local club will sponsor April 27 in the Hamlin High School gymnasium.

Roll call was answered with each member naming her favorite bird and why. Mrs. LaToy Patterson and Mrs. Arlie Cassle brought an interesting program on appreciation of our birds.

Mrs. Patterson reminded the group of many of our local birds and their foods. "The robin heralds spring, while the blue birds, red birds and goldfinch eat insects that are pests to man. The oriole stops by on his travel from North to South. The hummingbird weighs only about the same as a copper cent, but gives us so much pleasure watching their flight and listening to their song."

"New Tablet Relieves Painful Monthly Cramps—Brought Me Greater Relief Than Aspirin!"

"Couldn't sleep, was all on edge," adds Mrs. H. Y. Russell, Ky. "But new Pinkham's Tablets gave me soothing relief the very first day!"

For millions who suffer torture of cramps and nervous tension every month, an amazing new tablet has been developed that brings greater relief than aspirin!

Relief for 3 out of 4 tested! For 3 out of 4 women tested by doctors, pains and cramps were stopped or strikingly relieved. This new discovery offers more relief than aspirin because it contains not just 1 or 2 ingredients but a unique combination of medicines that act on the cause of distress.

Called "Lydia Pinkham's Tablets," they are at all drugstores without prescription. Try Pinkham's Tablets! See if you don't escape much irritability, discomfort—both before and during your period! (Also, Liquid Lydia's Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.)

Meadow larks, road runners and whip-poor-wills are regular summer boarders here.

Mrs. Cassle declared that "If we meet the needs of the birds they will give us pleasure the year around. Water to drink and to make their nests is very important; foods must be available; and there must be safe nesting places. Birds don't like their neighbors very close. Their houses must fit their size and must be cleaned after each nesting season. Birds need help in getting food in the winter, so to keep them living with us, must be fed regularly from fall to spring. Some birds prefer insects, while others like seeds. Suet, boiled potatoes, chopped eggs and fish are favorites of the insect eating birds, while the birds that prefer seeds will eat breads, rolled oats and a variety of seeds. To attract birds to your yard, plant the trees that they like—birch, hackberry, mulberry and shrubs with fruit," Mrs. Cassle advised.

The club adjourned with a desire to help our birds live with us.

Fourteen Women of County Go to District THDA Convention

Fourteen women from Jones County attended a District III meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association in Vernon on April 5. Maureen Hearne, the state home demonstration leader, gave a talk on her work in Bolivia. Mrs. Wilmer Smith, state secretary, spoke on "Our Wealth."

The Jones County women gave a health and safety skit. There were other skits on citizenship, civil defense, education, recreation and 4-H Club work.

Those attending from Jones County were Mmes. N. I. Williams, Howard Roberts, Frank Carter, Maxey Harvey, H. H. Windham, Karl Bonneau, Wayne Hendrick, E. L. Russell, Ed Lynn, Bill Glazner, Arch Herndon, Toff Herndon, James Overton and the agent, Mrs. Mary Y. Newberry.

Former Hamlin Girl, Terry Stringer, Weds Jerry Curtis Friday

Terry Frances Stringer, formerly of Hamlin, and Lieutenant Thomas Jerry Curtis were married Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Uvalde Baptist Church at Houston.

Rev. Bill Luton and Rev. John Osteen, formerly pastor of the Hamlin First Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Stringer, former Hamlin residents. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Curtis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of chantilly lace and tulle over satin. Portrait neckline was formed of the lace pattern and pleated nylon tulle. The bouffant skirt was lace paneled in front and the back panel fell full chapel train length. Her tulle veil fell from a tiara of pearls of rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of lily of the valley, stephanotis and an orchid.

Her attendants, Doylene Albright, maid-of-honor; Delores Teaff, cousin of the bride of Sweetwater; and Anita Jaynes and Sandra Smith, bridesmaids, were dressed in waltz length costumes of taffeta. The honor maid wore coral, the others aqua. They carried cascades of matching carnations.

On a wedding trip to Austin the bride wore a navy shantung suit with white and navy accessories.

Mrs. Curtis is a graduate of Galena Park High School in Houston and attended Sam Houston State College at Huntsville. Lieutenant Curtis is a pilot stationed at Ellington Air Force Base at Houston.

The newlyweds will live at 1000 Holland Street, Galena Park.

Sara Kay Fomby Named President of Hamlin FHA Group

Sara Kay Fomby was elected president of the Hamlin chapter of Future Homemakers of America in business session of the group last week. Other officers named are: Ginger Rabjohn, vice president; Renee Moore, secretary; Yvonne Conner, parliamentarian; Benita Smith, reporter; Libby Johnson, sergeant-at-arms; Iona Seaton, historian; Rebecca Ferguson, pianist; and Peggy Dodd, song leader.

The chapter last week observed National FHA Week with various activities. On Monday the nominating committee composed of Elizabeth Norton, Benita Smith, Geneva Brinegar and Annette Smith met to select candidates for 1957-58 officers. Tuesday the chapter presented a devotional, "A Gift of Love" and put a red rose, the FHA flower, on each teacher's desk. On Wednesday in a noon meeting election of officers was completed. Also plans were made for a picnic honoring the FFA chapter. A highlight of the meeting was the selection of Ginger Rabjohn and Renee Moore as delegates to the state FHA meeting at Dallas April 26 and 27. Pat Branscum was elected as alternate.

As the Thursday activity many FHA members wore the club colors, red and white, and FHA pins. Friday was designated as clean-up day. In final observance of the National FHA Week chapter members voted to attend services at the First Methodist Church Sunday morning in a group.

Home Missions Is Topic for Program By Wesleyan Guild

"Home Missions in the National News" was the subject discussed when an airplane island tour was taken by members of the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church in their regular meeting Thursday evening.

Chairs were arranged to represent the seats in an airplane with crepe paper used for seat belts. Maps were hung on the wall, and as each place was mentioned in the discussion it was lighted by a flashlight.

To begin the program the airplane radio was turned on and sacred hymns were played by Jimmy Shivers on his accordion. Mrs. L. W. Shivers acted as stewardess and announced the arrival of each missionary representative who boarded the plane, and explained her work in Alaska, the Hawaiian Islands or the Holding Institute at Laredo. Mrs. Joe Stephens assisted Mrs. Shivers with the program. At the end of the tour sandwiches, cake and coffee were served to all those aboard.

During the business meeting the following officers were elected for next year: Lula Vaughan, president; Mrs. L. W. Shivers, vice president; Mrs. Zelma Hulse, secretary; Mrs. E. M. Wilson, promotional secretary; and Mrs. H. A. Johnston, treasurer.

A report of the recent guild conference held at Snyder was given by Lula Vaughan, Georgia Moore, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Earl Brown. Plans were made and committees appointed for the Family Night, sponsored by the guild on May 8.

Topic of the program was "Partners with God." Mrs. Jo Riddle, sponsor of the YWA, gave the invocation. Mrs. Everett Gibson, president of the BWC, presented a short welcome and history of the work of YWA and the Business Women's Circle of the First Baptist Church. Mrs. D. W. Steff gave a further discussion on the backward look of YWA activities over the past 50 years.

Viola Avants, Mrs. A. C. Hall, Mrs. Eva Eades, Mrs. E. A. Hewett, Oleta Avants, Mrs. A. F. Dixon, Mrs. Joe Simpson and Mrs. James N. Robinson presented a candlelight scene depicting the ideals of the Young Woman's Auxiliary. Mrs. J. C. Greenway, director of BWC, gave an inspiring talk on the "Inner Look" of Christian workers. Mrs. Edgar Duncan, president of the WMU, closed the discussion with a "Hope for the Future" progress of YWA work in the church. Mrs. Calvin Bailey offered the closing prayer of rededication of service in mission work in the church.

Thirteen women of the Business Women's Circle, 15 girls of the YWA and Mrs. Jo Riddle, YWA sponsor, and Mrs. E. W. Anderson were present to enjoy the fellowship and fried chicken dinner.

Many Motorists Playing Cops and Driver, Says Chief

"Too many motorists play the game of cops and drivers!" So said J. O. Musick, general manager of Texas Safety Association, in connection with the know-and-obey traffic laws program launched by the Texas Safety Association.

The safety expert asserted that drivers and pedestrians who are always cheating in traffic are the real accident makers. "Fortunately," he said, "most motorists and pedestrians obey traffic laws and regulations most of the time. If they didn't our accident rates would soar to even greater heights.

"Statistics show that traffic law violators figure largely in traffic fatalities. In four out of five fatal accidents one or more driver violations are reported.

"Many of these violators feel that only suckers obey the laws. They know all the angles and short cuts. You know these characters—the ones who always over-drive the posted speed limits. They jump the red lights at intersections. They weave from lane to lane and sneak by on your right if you slow down at an intersection.

They never really stop at stop signs.

Citing the record, Musick said the most frequent violations reported in fatal traffic accidents are excessive speed, failure to yield the right-of-way, failure to keep to the right of the center line and disregard of an officer or traffic control device.

Youths Conduct Panel Program at Lions Club Session

Five youths from Hamlin High School presented a panel program on problems of young people when they spoke at the Tuesday noon luncheon of Hamlin High School at the oil mill guest house.

Acting as moderator of the group, Judy Harden opened the discussion and presented the other members of the panel. Sara Kay Fomby discussed "What Are the Youths to Do?" She presented the limited recreation possibilities for youth in the community and suggested a youth center sponsored by civic clubs and churches of the community.

Elizabeth Morton discussed "The American Home," showing how the home can help solve the youth problem with guidance, cooperation, example, love and security. Judy talked on "Society," showing that a positive program, high standards and friendliness contribute to solving the youth problems.

Jerry Fred Jay talked on "What Young People Can Do for the Church," urging a feeling of responsibility and a definite part in the church and community on the part of young folks.

Davey Weaver's topic was "What the Church Can do for Youth," pointing to the church's responsibility to youth. He likewise urged fostering of a recreation center by churches of the community.

Mac Fullerton, who will direct the Lions Club Minstrel on May 3, gave plans for the presentation. Tickets for the benefit show were distributed to members.

Only the U. S. President and the governor of Massachusetts have the official legal title of "Excellency."

Board of Insurance Commissioners granted a second delay in the show cause hearing on Physicians Life and Accident Insurance Company because the firm's president, former Governor Coke Stevenson, was ill. But hearing will be held April 22, said Commission Chairman John Osorio, regardless. . . . What Texas needs is an anti-wire tapping law, said U. S. Senator-Elect Ralph Yarborough. Senate Confirms.—Joe P. Gibbs will serve on the Board of Insurance Commissioners until September 1. Measures now before the Legislature would abolish the present board and substitute a new set-up between now and September.

Weekly confirmed Gibbs' and that of Brady Tyler to the Texas commission. Both were Also confirmed, after long debate, was the appointment of R. M. Dixon as a member of the State Board of Water Engineers. This appointment kept unbroken the record that none of the recess appointees of Governor Allan Shivers has been removed from office by Senate rejection. Other Shivers appointees confirmed by the upper house were R. F. Newman of Borger to the State Employment Commission, and nine other interim appointments made by the former governor.

Segregation Bill Okayed.—A bill regarded as the cornerstone of a program to maintain school segregation won its second round House vote.

It would allow local boards to assign pupils to schools on basis of "qualifications, aptitudes," etc. An amendment also gives the boards authority to exempt a child from compulsory attendance at an integrated school.

Hearing brought prolonged and heated testimony. Proponents of the measure contended lack of state and federal cooperation has resulted in inadequate crop inspection.

Opponents declared the 21-member board would be unwieldy and cost the state more in travel expense.

Then the attorney general ruled the teachers' bill was not an appropriation bill. This seemingly opened the door to quicker action. But budget watchers intervened. They said passage of the teacher bill first would leave the treasury $20,000,000 short of enough to cover the general appropriation bill.

This focused attention on Representative Tom Joseph's "just in case it's needed" tax bill. It would tax dedicated natural gas reserves, produce an estimated $35,000,000 in two years. Governor Price Daniel had mended a levy of this more revenue be needed.

But this one, by some introduced without an clause. Joseph sought the necessary two-thirds House vote to permit a correction. Vote was 68 to 66 against.

House and Senate have passed the bill which was recommended by Governor Price Daniel. It would permit juries to assess the death penalty on second conviction for sale of any narcotic drug to a minor.

Auto Registration Tax.—State car taking system would be overhauled under a measure which von preliminary House approval.

If passed, the constitutional amendment would abolish the property tax on motor vehicles. Legislature would be given authority to increase registration fees one-third. Revenue would be divided between school districts and city or county.

Meanwhile, the Texas Research League released a study suggesting further revision of the registration laws. License fees based on weight result in inequities, said the league. It proposed a flat fee for all size cars.

Farm Bill Shleved.—A bill to replace Commissioner of Agriculture John White's office with a 21-member board went to House sub-committee.

White declared the bill was dead.

Hearing brought prolonged and heated testimony. Proponents of the measure contended lack of state and federal cooperation has resulted in inadequate crop inspection.

Opponents declared the 21-member board would be unwieldy and cost the state more in travel expense.

Good Crop Prospects Make Caution About Cotton Insects More Imperative

Moisture conditions over most of Texas are the best in years—giving hopes for good crops. During drouth years, cotton insect control is of relatively minor importance. But, when moisture is adequate and conditions are favorable for making a good cotton crop, insects are often the big limiting factor.

Hamlin area cotton growers are concerned, therefore, about the problem of insects this season.

Cotton growers in every section of the state have demonstrated that insects damage can be prevented. As a result, yields up to five bales per acre have been produced with the aid of irrigation, heavy fertilization and insect control. Two and three-bale crops have been produced without irrigation in areas fortunate enough to receive timely rains.

The key to successful insect control is know-how, preparedness and getting the job done at the right time and in the right way. The 1957 Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects in Texas provides most of the answers. Additional information may be obtained from county agents, vocational agriculture teachers and others. It is the farmer's job to have the equipment and insecticides on hand when needed, and to use them wisely.

The early season control program is designed to prevent early damage, insect build-up, and to insure an early set of fruit. The program starts when the cotton is in the four-leaf stage or earlier if necessary. Poison applications are made at approximately weekly intervals until the plants reach the one-third grown square stage—about 10 days after the first squares are set.

The early season insect control program is considered a must in many sections of Texas and has been established as a part of the regular farming operation. With moisture, early season control should be highly profitable in all areas where thrips, fleahoppers or boll weevils, alone or in combination, cause damage.

Farmers should also be prepared to apply poison later in the season when the infestation and crop prospect justify.

All human wisdom is summed up on two words—wait and hope.—Alexandre Dumas the Elder.

A. & M. Exes Invited To Annual Muster At Haskell April 20

Annual Aggie muster of former students of A. & M. College of Texas who live in Haskell, Jones, Stonewall, Knox and Kent Counties will be held April 20 in Haskell to carry on a tradition that is 54 years old this year.

Scheduled to begin at 100 p. m. on Saturday, the 1957 muster program will be held in the Corral building at Fair Park in Haskell.

The evening program will include a chuck wagon supper, regular memorial muster service, and a short business meeting for election of officers.

A muster is held each year by students and former students of Texas A. & M. to pay their respects to fellow Aggies who have passed on and as an humble tribute to the Texans who won the freedom of the state in the Battle of San Jacinto near Houston 121 years ago.

All A. & M. College men and students are urged to attend this muster program, declares Royce Adkins of Haskell, muster chairman.

"ANYTHING YOU CAN DO..."—As parents know, a six-year-old boy can do just about anything, and it would be mighty surprising if Gary McFadridge let a blowfish win this puffing contest. This little puffer is one of many tropical fish that are on display in a Dallas department store. The puffing may be a toss-up, but Gary goes ahead on freckles. However, a challenge to "make like an Easter egg" would surely even the score.

Good Breakfast Vital To Health, Declares County Home Agent

Two out of three Americans eat too little breakfast. How about you? A good breakfast can prevent that empty, shaky feeling that often hits around 11:00 a. m. when breakfast has been inadequate, says Mary Y. Newberry, Jones County home demonstration agent.

A good breakfast pattern goes something like this: Fruit, cereal, eggs, toast and beverage. It should contain about one-third of the total daily food needs. Vary the basic pattern by the kind of fruit, cereal or bread you use, and by the way you prepare the eggs.

If you plan breakfast around a cereal, be sure to include milk, meat or eggs, too, in order to get the most from the incomplete protein of the cereal. Animal foods contain complete protein.

Keep the menu simple and easy to prepare. Allow time for all family members to eat leisurely and enjoy the meal. An attractive centerpiece and colorful mats or dishes will spark appetites and add interest to this important meal.

Sound Being Used to Clean Metal Surfaces

Sound high enough for only bats to hear are being tested as a new tool for refinery maintenance. In this process, already used for cleaning small parts, ultrasonic sound waves activate the cleaning solvent by high frequency energy in the form of mechanical vibrations. The vibrations "shake" deposits from metal surfaces.

Progressive thinking and diligent research on refinery maintenance problems mean that motorists today can count on plentiful supplies of motor fuel and lubricants at reasonable cost.

Nature Helping Game Comeback, Says Commission

Nature will not regret any of the smiles currently being bestowed on Texas, reports the director of wildlife restoration for the Game and Fish Commission.

"It begins to look like the old days," he said. "Fat deer, strutting wild turkeys, cooling doves, mating bobwhites—the entire animal kingdom is making spring pop out all over."

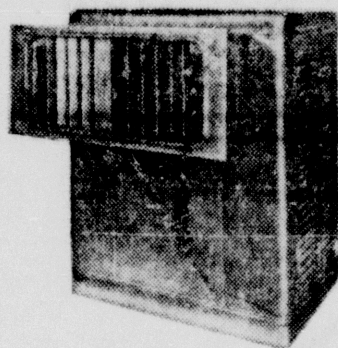

"Field men describe almost ideal conditions in almost all parts of the state, as food and cover seem destined to be restored to the pre-drought status. Of course, the weather could turn dry again. But, man, this seems like the real start on a fine comeback for all species."

The director, who is a national authority on wild turkey culture, said he was particularly happy over the first genuine prospects for a normal turkey hatch in the last six or seven years.

Texas was noted for having more than all other states put together before the drought scoured the ranges and decimated the flocks. "Now," said the director, "cover is generally adequate and native feed should be plentiful." He said brood stock is "fairly satisfactory" for turkeys as well as for other game animals and birds. "With moisture," he grinned, "we can regain much of our losses in a hurry."

New Pasture Grasses Being Demonstrated In County Projects

A three-year improved pasture grass demonstration has been initiated in Jones County, according to Bill Lehman, county agent. The grasses to be grown include common sudan, sweet sudan, sorghum alnum and the new perennial sudan grass. They will be planted in two replications of two rows each. The rows will be 15 feet long and cover a width of about 400 feet.

Farmers who are establishing the grass plots include Joe Culbertson of Hamlin, C. M. Brown of Noodle and Gerald Proctor, Avoca vocational agriculture instructor.

The grasses will be compared on the basis of germination, seedling vigor, rapidity of growth, and recovery after clipping to simulate grazing. They will be clipped each time they reach a height of two feet.

These grasses will be planted in the near future, and everyone interested is encouraged to watch the farm nearest them.

"Plus" Driver Is Definite Asset to Safety in Traffic

"Be a 'plus' driver. Offset the other fellow's blunders by your defensive tactics!"

This advice was given to motorists this week by J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, as he urged them to cooperate fully with the defensive driving program of TSA.

This program is part of the back-the-attack-on-traffic-accidents campaign designed to cut down the 1957 traffic toll. The spring phase of back-the-attack places emphasis on the responsibility of the driver for his own and others' safety.

"Many of the cases that come before the courts concern accidents that need never have happened," Musick said. "If the 'innocent' party in the accident had foreseen the danger in time, had known what to do, and had done it quickly, there might not have been an accident."

He pointed out that the driver's responsibility goes further than driving safely himself, knowing and obeying traffic laws, keeping his car in good mechanical condition, and driving only when he is in good physical condition.

"A driver might do all these things and still be involved in an accident through the unsafe behavior of a pedestrian or another driver," Musick said. "The 'plus' driver goes a step further. He is constantly alert to the accident potential of pedestrians, other drivers, and traffic and weather."

Money Management Taught Children Now May Be Future Help

When children beg and tease for nickels, dimes and quarters, parents may be using the wrong approach to the problem. Money management has to be learned as do reading, writing or arithmetic, according to Extension Service home management specialists. So learning this job, one step at a time, is part of a child's education.

Parents who have tried allowances for children report that usually less money is required than by the unplanned "hand out" method. Even more important, the child gets valuable training and satisfaction from learning how to get the most for his money. A personal allowance increases a child's pride and interest in cooperating with the family group.

A child needs opportunities to practice making decisions — to

New Leaflet on Livestock Markets Gives Pointers on Timing Stock Sales

"Seasonal Variations in Livestock Prices" is the title of a new leaflet just received in the county agent's office. Alvin B. Wooten, Extension Service economist, is the author of the new leaflet.

In it he states that little change occurs from month to month in the amount of meat that consumers eat, yet there are definite fluctuations in the price that producers receive for their livestock during different seasons of the year. These fluctuations result primarily from changes in the quantity of livestock marketed.

Changes in quantity are caused by several factors, such as breeding dates, weather, the amount of feed and grass available and production costs. Although the production of livestock is seasonal, the consumer wants a steady supply of most meat products. For example, the consumption of pork is relatively steady throughout the year, but most of the hogs produced are marketed in two different periods—in the spring and in the fall; consequently, the price of hogs usually reaches its peak during mid-summer when the number marketed is the smallest.

More cattle that grade good or lower come to market in the fall. Therefore, prices for such grades are lowest at that time. Prices for these grades reach their peak about mid-spring when smaller numbers are marketed. Since it is a common practice in Texas to breed cows to calve in February, March and April, the number of milk fat calves marketed reaches its peak in late summer and fall. A smaller number born during October and November reach the market in April and May when prices are the highest. (All prices have been adjusted for trend).

A large number of feeder cattle move out of Texas to mid-west feeding areas during the fall. Although the demand is good during the period, the number marketed is large enough to depress prices to a very low level. The demand for stocker cattle to go on pasture is strong during the spring. This, combined with the limited number marketed, causes seasonally high prices which reach a peak in April.

The seasonal price for hogs is established perhaps better than any other type of livestock. Large supplies in the fall, when the spring pig crop is marketed and in the spring when the fall crop is marketed, reduce prices at these times. Hog producers can increase their income by marketing during the months when prices are normally the highest. They can do this in two ways:

1. Regulate farrowing dates of sows.
  2. Use forced or delayed feeding to bring hogs to market weight in the high priced period.
- Fat lambs bring high prices in the spring, reaching a peak during May after fed lamb marketings have fallen off and before spring lambs reach the market in volume. Most feeder lambs have to move during late summer and fall and prices are depressed during that period.

That's-for-the-Other-Fellow Attitude Toward Warnings Helps Up Accidents

National news services recently sent out reports of a city councilman in a small Iowa town who voted in favor of setting up a radar speed checking device. And shortly afterward the same councilman paid a $10 fine for speeding as the first victim of the machine.

This item is one of those odd twists to the news that every news man likes to pick up on otherwise routine beats. Sometimes they are funny; sometimes just strange or ironic. This is one of the ironic kind.

However, the story points up one of the human failings that keeps the "traffic fatality lists" growing larger and larger each day. You might call it "that's-for-the-other-fellow" attitude. To some public officials and certainly to a lot of average citizens, traffic problems always seem to involve "the other fellow." Actually, who are the speed limits posted for? For whom are other traffic regulations set? Who are the careless drivers' laws made for?

Only when we decide that they are for us, all of us, and we start doing something about it, will those fatality lists diminish. We can build safety into well designed, well constructed highways; we can use all the skills of engineering to speed the flow of traffic; we can step up enforcement, tighten licensing and set up other controls. But we won't make a permanent dent in the fatality lists until we accept traffic safety as our individual responsibility.

Several weeks ago the Texas Safety Association, in cooperation with the National Safety Council set the ball rolling on Texas' participation in the nation-wide "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" program.

Back the attack is an all-out offensive to curb traffic accidents. It is to supplant S-D Day of the two previous years, and is designed to gain public support for stepped-up official action and public participation in community safety activities, as well as to get the individual to improve his own driving attitudes.

The program will continue through 1957 with emphasis on timely and seasonal subjects. Back the attack cannot be successful as a one-time shot. It must be carried on until we reverse the upward trend of traffic accidents.

Stronger enforcement, improved traffic engineering and public education through safety programs are the proven way to beat this problem. In cities and states where these actions are being carried on, the results are gratifying.

We here in Texas need to stop talking about our highway mayhem and start doing something about it. We can if we join together and "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents."

Milk Price for March Was $5.69 for Area

Minimum uniform price to be paid for 4.0 per cent base milk received by Central West Texas handlers from producers during March will be $5.68 per 100, according to an announcement by Byford W. Bain, market administrator. Numbers of producers are in the Hamlin area.

Daily Class I sales by handlers during March were 3.98 per cent less than February and .90 per cent less than the daily sales during March, 1956. The decrease from February to March resulted from decreases in both in-area and out-of-area Class I sales.

Washington.—For the rest of his life William A. Blakley, Dallas multi-millionaire businessman and lawyer, rates the title of senator.

But he says:

"I hope my friends will just keep on calling me Bill, and I expect them to."

Such a reaction is typical of the tall, quiet speaking Texan whose trim figure, flashing dark eyes and dark hair belie his 58 years.

Although Blakley is a majority stockholder in Braniff Airways, owns vast cattle ranches in Texas and New Mexico and among other activities is building a $125,000-600 shopping center in Dallas, he was surprisingly little known by the public until appointed to the U. S. Senate on January 15.

He modestly disclaims any right to distinction on the basis of service in Congress.

"Having been appointed rather than elected," he mused, "I know better than anyone that I do not rate in the same category with those who were sent here by the will of the people.

"But I do take pride in the fact that Governor Shivers thought highly enough of me to make the appointment. And I will always treasure the experience. No one can serve in the Senate without being a better American."

Blakley was urged by many friends to be a candidate in the April 2 special election but turned down the suggestions with a statement thanking those with such confidence in him and saying he never had sought political office and was not interested in a political career.

Seated at the same big mahogany desk which Governor Price Daniel, his immediate predecessor, had occupied, Blakley talked of his few weeks as a member of the world's greatest deliberative body. He spoke praise for the Senate and its role in democratic processes. The fondness in his voice made one think he was perhaps wishing he might remain a member.

"The sense of responsibility grips you," he continued. "You must weigh your words and actions much more than you do when you speak to a friend standing on the curb."

Asked whether he would suggest any changes in procedures of the Senate, he replied it would be presumptuous on his part even to think of such a thing in view of brief tenure. He went on to laud the wisdom of founding fathers who set up the tri-partite American government and to voice a hope that the legislative branch would never let the executive nor the judicial branch usurp any of its functions.

Even the long-winded speeches of some senators, some of which last hours with only three or four other senators in the chamber, were defended by Blakley. Or, rather, the rules which permit such unlimited oratory.

"Sometimes the privileges senators enjoy are abused," he added, "but I would never want to curb such basic rights as free and unlimited debate."

He also defended the seniority system which gives the committee chairmanships to those who have served the longest on each committee, pointing out that a man who has won approval of the voters repeatedly and spent years on a particular committee is, generally speaking, well qualified for leadership. Any other system might make it easier for a cunning fellow to get control of such a position, Blakley added.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

A Public Service Feature of the State Bar of Texas

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

COURT RULES PRESERVE JUSTICE.

Are you hopelessly confused by court room procedure? Words such as "objections," "overruled," "sustained," "hearsay," "irrelevant" or "opinion" are meaningless to many persons.

The purpose of a trial is to settle disputes that the parties cannot settle by themselves. Before these disputes can be settled, the facts which give rise to them must be established. This sounds simple, but on the contrary it is a difficult task. If the parties agreed on the facts the job would be easy, but each side has its own version.

The trial court has the job of establishing the facts. This is accomplished by questioning witnesses and the introduction of physical evidence. This requires application of the rules of evidence.

Through the years the law of evidence has been established. The rules place restraints on what type of evidence is proper. They have the effect of protecting the rights of the parties by insuring a fair trial.

Hearsay is a word often heard during a trial. Hearsay may involve a statement by a third person of a conversation between two other persons. It would be hearsay if Jones were asked to tell the court what he overheard Smith tell Greene. With certain exceptions, evidence of this type is excluded because it is not reliable, and might open the door to false testimony.

A lawyer objects to evidence he does not believe is proper. If a lawyer objects to evidence because it is irrelevant, he means that the evidence is of such little importance that it has no bearing on the case, and if admitted it would bog down the trial so that the time needed does not justify its admission.

Opinion evidence of one not an expert is not admissible since such opinion carries no weight.

When an objection is sustained by the judge the evidence is not received. Should the objection be overruled, the evidence is allowed to be presented.

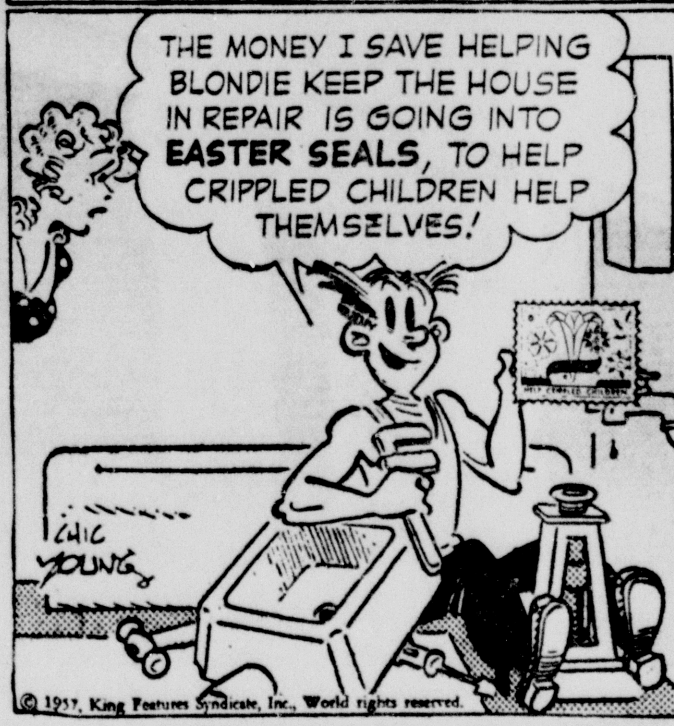

The rules of evidence have been built up through many years of court trials. These rules are not arbitrary but are designed to see that justice is done in our courts. The judge is seeking to have the truth established and insure that all parties and witnesses in the trial are given a full and fair opportunity to present the facts.

Deferred Grazing Will Help Pastures Recover from Inroads of Long Drought

Range deferment may be what your pasture needs, point out leaders of the California Creek Soil Conservation District. Continuing they say: Listed are some things to consider in deferring a pasture:

1. Rest during the growing season gives best results. Deferring a pasture from May through July will increase the vigor of grass and permit it to spread vegetatively.
2. Fall deferment for a couple of months beginning September 1 allows better grasses to seed and store plant food in the roots.
3. On pastures that are in poor or fair condition deferment for two growing seasons will insure a faster recovery.
4. Remove all livestock during the deferment period.
5. Provide temporary pastures when deferring a pasture to avoid over-use of other pastures.

In what state of health is your native grassland? If your better grasses are beginning to thin out a prescribed rest period just might be what it needs.

During our February rains more moisture was lost to run-off from pasture land than cultivated fields. This being due to lack of vegetation to induce moisture intake on rangeland.

The drought has contributed considerably to the poor condition of our pastures. However, the failure to reduce our herds has done more damage to our grass than

Users Urged to Be Cautious as They Handle Potent Insecticides for Insects

As man has endeavored to control insects that are damages the crops of the area, it is pointed out by County Agent Bill Lehmborg that the organic insecticides and miticides have proven effective for pest control but they must be used with precaution in order to protect the handler.

Although many of the new insecticides are not as toxic to man as some of the older ones, their use has sometimes brought on problems.

Insecticide injury to man may result from oral or respiratory intake or by skin absorption. Certain solvents used in preparing insecticide solutions or emulsions are inflammable and most of them are poisonous to some degree.

Most of the chlorinated hydrocarbons are reasonably safe at strengths normally applied to crops and livestock. However, in concentrated form, they may cause acute poisoning. Continued exposure, with no regard to safety measures, to the lower concentrations may result in accumulation of the chemical in the body with possible eventual tissue or organic injury.

Many of the phosphorus compounds, such as parathion, methyl parathion, EPN, TEPP, demeton, diazinon, phosdrin, thimet and guthion are extremely poisonous and must be handled with care at all times. These insecticides are much more poisonous to warm blooded animals than most other chemicals used for insect control, and the manufacturer's directions should be followed strictly at all times.

The physiological activity of the phosphorus compounds in both insects and warm blooded animals is primarily inhibition of the cholinesterase enzyme. Repeated exposure to these chemicals may reduce the cholinesterase level gradually to the point where symptoms occur. Symptoms of phosphorus insecticide poisoning include headache, pinpoint pupils, blurred vision, weakness, nausea, abdominal cramps, diarrhea and tightness in the chest.

Dr. Wayland J. Hayes of the U. S. Public Health Service at Savannah, Georgia, is an authority on the treatment of poisoned cases. We suggest that any doctor call Dr. Hayes for detailed information on symptoms and treatment.

With the increased use of these highly toxic materials, it is essential that we stress safety measures at every opportunity, the county agent says. Listed below are some important points to remember when handling and using these insecticides:

1. All applicators, when handling highly toxic insecticides must avoid breathing the dust, vapor or spray and avoid skin contact.
2. Respirators which meet the specifications of U. S. Bureau of Mines should be worn when handling or working around highly toxic insecticides.
3. Gloves and freshly laundered protective clothing should be worn when handling highly toxic insecticides.
4. If highly toxic insecticides are spilled on skin or clothing, work should be stopped immediately and the person should bathe with soap and water, and change clothing.
5. All persons handling highly toxic insecticides should bathe and change clothing immediately after finishing the job.
6. All persons and livestock should be protected from drift, sprays or dusts.
7. Do not enter fields within two or three days after treatment with highly toxic insecticide.
8. All regular handlers of highly toxic phosphorus insecticides at intervals not greater than 10 days during the period they are working with the material. (See your local doctor regarding these tests).
9. Store sprays and dusts away from children and irresponsible people as well as foods and feeds.
10. Follow instructions on the manufacturer's label.

TELEPHONE TALK

Open House

How long has it been since you have visited a telephone central office? Even if it was only yesterday, you are welcome to visit the telephone building in Sweetwater during our open house on April 25 and 26. The hours are from 2:00 to 4:00 and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. on both days.

There you will see the largest switching center for long distance calls in West Texas. Yes, it's the largest switching center west of Fort Worth.

This machine handles all calls from Amarillo to the southern border and from El Paso to Cisco. Since the date this machine was put into use, which was March 17, it has switched as high as 70,000 calls in a single day. An average day is from 40,000 calls to 45,000 calls.

With the installation of this switching equipment, long distance calls in this area have been speeded up to nearly twice as fast.

In addition to this switching machine, you will be taken on a guided tour of the entire building, including the local telephone equipment rooms, power room and the long distance operating room.

Among the exhibits that you will see will be the Bell Solar Battery and a "see-your-voice" machine. We will have a working model of the Solar Battery. It will be used to provide power for an electric motor simply by capturing the heat waves of the sun and transforming them into commercial power.

In addition to the Bell Solar Battery, open house visitors will also get to see their own voice on the screen of an Oscilloscope.

Yes, I believe that you and your family will enjoy what we have to show you.

Remember, the hours are from 2:00 to 4:00 and from 7:00 to 9:00 on April 25 and 26 at the telephone building, 211 East Fourth Street in Sweetwater.

Programs for Your Group

Watching a movie at a Service Club meeting the other day reminded me to tell you about free-loan motion pictures we keep in our telephone film library.

Altogether I guess we have about 600 different 16-mm. films. All are sound films—many are in color. Some are short ones—just eight or 10 minutes. Others run 20 or 30 minutes, even up to an hour. Any of these films would add entertainment to your club program or other group meetings.

School teachers also find telephone films useful as classroom visual aids.

Any time you'd like to borrow a film from us, just call the telephone business office. If possible, try to give us a few weeks' notice so we can make sure it's available the day you need it.

Also, if you'd like to call and give us your name and address, I'd be glad to send you a free catalog that lists and describes the film and other program materials we have.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

SPARKS FOR MINDS

Almost five centuries ago, Gutenberg's invention of movable type started a revolution. It has been going on ever since.

For five times five centuries—and soon before—a few men were the privileged rulers—by accident of birth or of circumstance. The people were subjects, supporting those thus kept in authority.

However, movable type, by cutting the cost of printing, began the process of making knowledge more widely available. People's understanding then grew. Sparks of hope were awakened in the minds of men. When it became apparent to entrenched authority that permitting wide dissemination of information and ideas might in time destroy their sinews, censorship was exercised.

In a search for greater freedom, men of many ages and creeds crossed the ocean to establish homes on this continent. They and their children founded here a nation dedicated to a new principle: government by the people, and for the people. And knowing that liberty could be overthrown only by subduing freedom of speech and the press, they provided further that this basic freedom should never be abridged.

This system of government created an opportunity for all men to advance, limited only by their efforts. In but a few generations it won for this people a higher standard of living and of human welfare than had ever before been dreamed possible.

America's freedom of the press has proved to the world that the patriotic instinct of an informed plain people can be relied on to govern wisely and well.

Need for More Brains in World Today City by Roger W. Babson, Economist

Two basic financial problems are facing every city and town today, points out Roger W. Babson, well known business analyst and economist, in his weekly release to The Herald. His article continues:

Roger W. Babson

(1) Higher interest rates must be paid for all money borrowed, including that for new schools, and there is a shortage of teachers at any wage. Almost all other groups of workers have increased production as their wages have risen; but the carpenters use electric tools; the painters spray instead of using hand brushes; the doctors make quicker "calls" by telephone; while stores are fast adopting "self service." Even the blond typist uses an electric typewriter while her boss uses a soundscreeper. The housewife herself has cut down her work so as to make it necessary to employ maids and laundries, and, in fact, she can even earn money by an outside part-time job.

With the faithful school teacher the results are often the opposite. It is true that she has been given more "things" to teach and to talk about. These have been forced upon her school superintendent by high pressure textbook salesmen and politicians. These outside "things" take the teacher's time and strength. I greatly sympathize with all school teachers in their predicament.

But the fact is that her product does not increase in efficiency and usefulness as her salary is increased. The good women now teaching my grandchildren get more than double the pay which the teachers received when I was in school. I, however, am convinced that these children do not get the training that I had 50 years ago. Moreover, every employer will say that the product of our schools is not as good as it formerly was. Furthermore, we employers are not allowed to "return the goods and get our money back" when the work of a graduate is inefficient and careless.

Basically, the job of a school teacher is to help her pupils develop their brains. If this has been properly accomplished, the other needs—character, health, posture and personality—will naturally follow. Yet, our public school students are not taught anything today about their brain. They utterly fail to realize its marvelous powers, how it works, and its tremendous unused possibilities. In fact, only in the past year did I get interested in my own brain through Dr. George Russel Harrison, the wonderful MIT dean of science. Write him for a copy of his article in a recent Atlantic Monthly. (Please enclose needed return postage).

Now here is a suggestion which those responsible for the cost of the teaching of your children should seriously consider. Begin in the lower grades to interest the children in their brains. Instead of giving them "CAT" as the first word to spell, give them "BRAINS" to spell! Have at the top of every report card these words: "Brain Is Working." Constantly keep the children conscious of their brain and its marvelous possibilities.

Recently I asked some boys what kind of reading interested them most. One replied, "Airplane engines;" another said, "Space flying;" while a third said, "To understand how a TV works." Then when I began to tell them of the marvelous machinery inside their own heads, they were fascinated. I gave them only one illustration of what happens when they see an object, and how the light waves reflected therefrom are changed to electrical impulses which in turn are registered and stored in a minute memory compartment of their brain to be taken out and used years later.

My point is this: Physiologists tell us that we are using our brains at only three per cent of capacity. If so, think what it would mean to our future and the future of the nation to increase this three per cent to only six per cent. It could not only double the efficiency of every public school graduate, but it could double our standard of living and it could make every one of us better, healthier and happier. Then every teacher would gladly be given double her present salary and more!

You have to work for everything. The pot of gold is at the end of the rainbow, not at the beginning.

HURRY UP!—Miss Fancy, a two-week-old toy Manchester pup, can hardly wait for feeding bottles offered by Susan Gaye, a secretary at Station KTRK-TV at Houston. Feeding the pup, whose mother couldn't handle the chore, posed a problem for owner Nita Renfro, switchboard operator at the station. So Miss Renfro bundled up the pup and took her to work, where members of the station staff take turns every three hours handling the bottle detail.

Draft Registration In State Passes 1,000,000-Man Line

State draft board registration passed the 1,000,000 mark in February, a consolidation of local board reports revealed Tuesday.

The consolidated report, made by state selective service headquarters at Austin to the national headquarters in Washington, showed that the state had 995,232 men registered at the end of January, and 1,000,945 at the end of February.

At the end of 17 days of registration in August and September, 1948, when the draft law required that all men register between the ages of 18 and 25, a total of 450,183 males of those ages had signed registration cards.

Since that time, there has been a continuing requirement for all males to register on their fifteenth birthday or within five days thereafter. Under such requirement it has taken about eight and one-half years for the registration rolls to reach 1,000,000 men.

As men grow older after they register, some lose their draft liability at age 26, some at age 28 and others not until they are 35 years old, depending upon deferments. Some deferments keep individuals liable for induction long-term. No matter whether their liability ceases at ages 26, 28 or 35, draft registrants always have the liability of keeping their local boards informed of their current mailing address.

Since the present draft law was enacted in 1948, all males born since August 30, 1932, have had and now have a legal obligation to register, except those not yet 18.

2,611 Texas People Died in Traffic Accidents in 1956

Colonel Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced the official figures today for the 1956 highway traffic death count in a release to The Herald.

Garrison said that with the official closing of the 1956 books on traffic deaths that 2,611 persons had been killed during the year and economic loss in the state amounted to $229,685,450.

He said his figures, compiled by N. K. Woerner, chief of the department's statistical division, show that 111,501 persons were injured during the year of 1956 and that there were a total of 228,832 motor vehicle accidents.

The state police director said the 1956 death count represented an all-time high with 64 more deaths than were placed on the books during the record breaking year of 1955 with 2,547 fatalities. "Actually," he said, "there was a three per cent increase in traffic deaths in Texas last year in comparison with 1955, and our death rate per 100,000,000 miles of travel raised only slightly to 6.5 as compared with 6.4 deaths per 100,000,000 miles of travel in 1955."

Garrison said several factors must be considered in the fatality figure. "We have more automobiles than ever before in our state and we are driving more miles than ever before. But that is no reason to expect an increased number of deaths in traffic accidents."

"With more driving we have become lax in our attitudes toward breaking traffic laws, and we have become selfish in our driving habits. The traffic officer can do only so much in removing dangerous drivers from the road; we need the full cooperation of the motoring public in making 1957 a safer year on our streets and highways."

The final count of the traffic fatalities is withheld until March 15 each year because of late deaths that occur as the result of traffic accidents during the calendar year.

An old saying declares that truth lies at the bottom of a well. These days it is more likely to lie buried under a pile of propaganda.

100,000 Children Have Unqualified Teachers in Texas

More than 100,000 Texas school children are in classrooms without a qualified teacher, Dana Williams, Texas State Teachers Association president, said this week in a release to The Herald.

Williams pointed out that the Texas Education Agency this school year has issued 3,062 emergency teaching certificates to persons who could not qualify for a regular certificate.

The education agency is now issuing "teaching permits" at the rate of more than 125 each week, Williams said. These are granted to persons who are "the best available" and many have only a high school diploma.

"I think the people of Texas ought to have this information," the TSTA leader said, "because it is an alarming situation."

Now pending before the fifty-fifth Legislature is an emergency teacher pay raise bill which would help solve the problem by keeping experienced teachers in the classroom and attracting new and qualified ones, he explained. It would provide $399 increase to $3,204 in the state base minimum, plus $180 in increments.

"It now appears that only $200 per teacher will be available for increased teachers' salaries, if all the money remaining after the general appropriations bill is used for this purpose. This will not do the job; this will not solve the problem."

"More money must be provided by the Legislature if Texas citizens are to keep qualified teachers for Texas boys and girls," declared Williams.
